These disclosures came followg the publication of a new list f corn traders on which appeared e name of Henry Morgenthau, r., former secretary of the treasy.

Morgenthau acknowledged that sold 195,000 bushels of corn tures last June, but said in a tement issued in New York at he lost money.

There is nothing illegal in specuion, although it has been deunced by President Truman as factor in rising prices and some vernment agencies have regulaons against such activity by their ployes.

Mrs. Brisker has not been liston any tabulation of governnt employes thus far made pub-, but her husband told a reorter she was correctly named on list of wheat traders given out sterday. He said further that s sister-in-law was on the list.

Marion Man Serving in Okinawa Wins Distinction As Artist

T/5 Harry S. Richardson, pictured above in Okinawa, as he adds the finishing touches to "Performance."

A Marion youth, Harry S. Richardson, stationed at an Army Air base on Okinawa, is winning honors for himself in the field of art while serving as a technician fifth grade with the 473rd Signal Heavy Construction company of Kadena Air base. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Richardson of 184 Hughes avenue and a graduate of Harding High school with the class of 1946. At Harding he was a track star, a three-letter man in tumbling exhibitions, a member of the Hi-Y and the art club, and Color Daubers. In addition to his art he also is a woodcraftsman.

A news release concerning Cpl. Richardson's art activities and the accompanying photograph recently were received by The Star from Headquarters, 316th Bomb Wing VH, Okinawa, to which his unit is attached.

Winner in Contests

His primary off-duty interest is art, and without professional instruction he has begun to make noteworthy progress in this field, which requires exceptional talent for success.

In the Philrykom art contest held recently in Manila, Cpl. Richardson was awarded third prize for his pencil drawings entitled "Performance." This prize-winning piece of art consisted of five hand studies, which depicts the struggles of an artist.

The prize awarded this 19-year-old artist by the Philrykom contest judges was a gold ribbon and cash award. Similar prizes were awarded him in Japan and on Okinawa.

Long Interested in Art

While yet in grade school, Cpl. Richarson's interests were being devoted to the study and practice of art and woodcraft.

Prior to entering the United States Air Force he was awarded first prize in an Army day poster contest held in Marion.

Already versed in the works of many of the world's great artists, Cpl. Richardson plans to enter the Cleveland School of Art, in Cleveland, O., when discharged. There he will begin the study of art and sculpture.

NEW INDUSTRY FORMED HERE

Popped-Right Corn Co. To Start Operations in Former Lust Building.

A new industry, the Popped-Right Corn Co., for which articles of incorporation are now being set up by the Wyandot Popcorn Co. will be established in Marion soon.

The new company will occupy the second and third floors of the three-story building at 119 West Mill street, at one time occupied by the Lust Candy Co. The second floor, now vacant, was formerly occupied by an athletic club. The company expects to be in operation by Feb. 15.

Stainless steel equipment for the processing and packing of prepopped popcorn has been ordered and experienced help has been engaged to operate the new business. The popcorn will be popped and packed in bags before leaving the plant, and will be ready for reheating by the dispensers. Plans call for the shipment of some 1,500 pounds of popcorn daily to theater chains and other users of seasoned popcorn through dispensing warmers to the consumer.

Officers of the Wyandot Popcorn Co. are W. Hoover Brown, president, Ava King Brown, vice president and treasurer, and Harry C. Lazear, secretary.

DOUBTS CONFESSION IN DEATH OF GIRL

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 8—Detective Lt. David E. Kerr said today a 23-year-old former inmate of a feeble minded institution had admitted stabbing to death Sheila Ann Tuley, 8, but expressed little confidence in the "confession."

There are too many discrepancies in the youth's story, Kerr said. The youth and an 18-year-old brother were held in closely guarded cells at police headquarters.

Sheila Ann was found dead on the porch of a neighbor New Year's night.

Kerr quoted the older boy's account as follows:

The pair had gone to the Ambassador theater near where the girl's body was found.

"We saw a murder picture," the older boy said. "Then I left earlier than my brother and walk-

His formal announcement of his candidacy for the Democratic nomination will be made tonight in Wooster, the newspaper added. Infantile Paralysis Campaign Set for Jan. 15-30.

Plans are going forward for the countywide March of Dimes campaign to be held Jan. 15 to 30 in the interest of prevention and research work in the cure of infantile paralysis. As in former years the campaign is nationwide in scope and is sponsored by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Virgil F. Dye, chairman for the 1948 campaign, today announced that Carl H. Knirk, assistant chairman, has contacted communities throughout the county and distribution of the containers for the voluntary contributions is now in progress.

At New Bloomington the Livingston store will be the center of activities and at LaRue the Business Women's club is responsible for the placing of 15 of the containers at various business and professional places in that community. Miss Lena Dale Mulvaine is president and Mrs. Blanche Hussey is vice president of the club.

Members of the Lions club assumed the responsibility of placing 24 of the containers in Prospect with James Lauer and Don Hickman as co-chairmen. Members of the Pythian Sisters are in charge of the work at Green Camp and community with Mrs. Forest Davis acting as chairman. Seven of the containers will be placed at various places in that community. Fifteen of the containers were taken over by Victor Wick, commander of Porter-Snyder Post No. 605, American Legion, and members of the post will sponsor the placing of the little boxes at Waldo.

Twenty containers were placed in the hands of R. D. Flowers of the Farm and Home Lumber Co. at Caledonia to be placed at the convenience of contributors in that village and vicinity, and at Morral eight containers will be distributed by Dwight Mahaffey.

Give Europe Adequate Help or None at All, Is Marshall Appeal

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8—Secretary of State Marshall appealed to congress today for an adequate, prompt and effectively administered European aid program and bluntly challenged the lawmakers:

"Either undertake to meet the requirements of the problem or don't undertake it at all."

At the same time the soldier-turned-diplomat rejected outright the Republican backed proposal to create a new government corporation to administer the projected aid program. He called for a single administrator responsible to the President and working in harmony with the secretary of state on foreign policy questions.

"There cannot be two secretaries of state," Marshall asserted.

The man whose name designates the "Marshall plan" for European recovery appeared before the senate foreign relations committee as the first of more than a dozen high officials assigned to present the Democratic administration's case to the Republican congress for a four-year multi-billion dollar program of assistance to western Europe.

Of the need for such aid, Marshall declared: "Dollars will not save the world—but the world today cannot be saved without dollars."

The cabinet officer's briskly written 5,500-word statement sketched the arguments for the huge project, unprecedented in America's peace-time history, told how and why he thinks it should work, why he considers it necessary and what it ought to cost.

He described the $6,800,000,000, which President Truman has asked for the first 15 months of the plan, as a precision figure which "does not represent a generous estimate of requirements. It is not, he said, an "asking figure" based on expected cuts by congress.

Aid in the full amount, Marshall declared, is required "to initiate a program of genuine recovery and to take both Europe and this nation out of the blind alley of mere continuing relief."

As for the whole undertaking, the secretary reiterated earlier estimates that the cost might range between $15,100,000,000 and $17,300,000,000. But he said "the overall cost is not capable of precise determination so far in advance."

"Three principles," Marshall said, "should determine the amount and timing of our aid. It must be adequate. It must be prompt. It must be effectively applied."

On the question of providing sufficient funds to do the job, he told the lawmakers the first appropriation should be enough to get the program under way "on a broad, sound basis and not in a piecemeal manner."

"An inadequate program," he added, "Would involve a wastage of our resources with an ineffective result. Either undertake to meet the requirements of the problem or don't undertake it at all."

Early Action Urged

On the question of time, Marshall said, "the sooner this program can get under way the greater its chances of success. * * * Unless the program can be placed in operation on or soon after April first, there will undoubtedly be a serious deterioration in some of the basic conditions upon which the whole project is predicated."

In connection with the problem of cost, Marshall gave this reply to whether the American people can bear the costs and make the "sacrifice" he considers necessary to success:

"A world of continuing uneasy half-peace will create demands for constantly mounting expenditures for defense. This program should be viewed as an investment in peace. In those terms, the cost is low."

The "investment in peace" should pay out, Marshall said, by enabling Europeans to restore their war ravaged economies "against the avowed determination of the Soviet Union and the Communist party to oppose and sabotage" the recovery program "at every turn."

He pictured the alternative to economic recovery as a western European collapse in which "the historic base of western civilization * * * will take on a new form in the image of the tyranny that we ought to destroy in Germany."

"Our national security will be seriously threatened," he said. "We shall live in effect in an armed camp, regulated and controlled."

Marshall appealed to his congressional audience not to attach strings to the aid beyond seeing that the funds and goods are "effectively used to promote recovery and not diverted to other purposes whatever their nature."

"All we can say is this program does provide the means for success and if we maintain the will for success I believe that success will be achieved."

It was announced today that the law firm of Strelitz, Dowler and Halberstein, with offices in the Citizens building, 148 West Center street, had dissolved its partnership, effective Dec. 31, 1947. The members of the firm were J. Malcolm Strelitz, Harry L. Dowler and Joseph L. Halberstein.

Mr. Strelitz and Mr. Dowler have been partners in the practice of law since September, 1937. Mr. Halberstein became associated with the firm in 1941, and was admitted to membership as a partner on Jan. 1, 1947.

Mr. Strelitz announced that his partnership with Mr. Halberstein would continue, with their law offices located as at present, in the Citizens building.

Mr. Dowler announced that he would continue the practice of law in the city of Marion, with his offices at their present location in the Citizens building, pending an announcement of his plans in the near future.

Publicity Man Who Promoted Roosevelt's Third Term Dies

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8—Charles Michelson, 79, newspaperman and former publicity director of the Democratic national committee, died today.

He had been ill and confined for months to his apartment where he died.

Michelson, veteran political writer, took over as Democratic press agent in 1929 and held the post for 13 years.

In 1940 he promoted a third term for Franklin D. Roosevelt—the first ever given a president.

Michelson had been chief Washington correspondent for the New York World for 12 years before taking the party job—which eventually paid him $25,000 a year.

A native of Virginia City, Nev., he started his newspaper career as a $7 a week reporter on the San Francisco Post. He worked on several west coast and New York papers.

He died at 7:45 a. m. after awakening and asking a nurse to bring him a cup of coffee.

BRICKER SEES HIGH BUDGET

Ohio Senator Says $10 Billion Saving Possible in Year.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8—Senator Bricker (R-Ohio) said today that a reported $40,000,000,000 budget requested expected from President Truman next week would be "far too high" and possibly could be shaved by $10,000,000,000.

Bricker, three-time governor of Ohio, proposed "economies all down the line" and said one step toward reducing government expenditures should be a cut-back of 500,000 in the nearly 2,000,000 federal employes.

This could be done without impairing services, Bricker said, adding that in his first term as governor he reduced a state payroll of 22,000 by 5,000 without affecting efficiency.

Other Proposals

Other measures he proposed to cut government expenses included:

Reorganization of departments to eliminate overlapping functions.

A central purchasing agency to correlate purchasing of government agencies.

Elimination of federal agencies performing duties that duplicate activities of similar state bodies.

Bricker told a reporter that taxes to pay high government costs take one-third of the national income and that "taxpayers cannot continue to carry this burden."

He added that the amount going into taxes exceeds by $3,000,000,000 the amount spent for food.

The Ohioan said he is "confident" that a joint commission headed by former President Herbert Hoover to study reorganization of the federal government "will point out some very glaring defects and unnecessary expenditures and will suggest constructive improvements in government organization."

Bricker was chairman of a senate expenditures subcommittee to which the bill creating the Hoover commission was submitted. Rep. Clarence Brown (R-Ohio) sponsored the measure in the house and is a member of the commission. The commission will report to congress next Jan. 1.

Bricker said a central purchasing agency existed in Ohio when he became governor but that he installed for the first time a requirement that everything purchased be advertised for bids. The result, he said, was a saving of "millions."

"The same thing could be done in the federal government," Bricker asserted. "Under the present situation, agencies like the Army, Navy, agriculture and relief groups sometimes are bidding against each other in their purchases."

Functions of the federal government that lap over into similar state activities should be eliminated he said, adding that "many present federal functions could be returned to the states, where they would be more efficiently conducted even though grants in aid were necessary."

Taft Going On Radio Tonight With His Party Program.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8 — Republicans pinned a political "left-winger" label on President Truman today as they set out to counter his state of the union proposals with their own laws making program in preparation for next November's ballot battles.

But Senator McGrath of Rhode Island, chairman of the Democratic national committee, replied the President has offered "a business-like, practical program of progressive liberalism."

Senator Taft of Ohio, an announced presidential candidate and chairman of his party's policy committee in the senate, will take to the air tonight (ABC—9:30 p.m.,) to compare Republican ideas for new laws with those of the President.

Taft, who drew criticism from some Republican colleagues for his attack last November on Mr. Truman's 10-point anti-inflation program, said he plans "a dispassionate discussion" of the difference between the G.O.P. and Democratic objectives.

Tax Proposal Assailed

Amid cries that the President's proposal for a 40 a year "cost of living" tax cut for each taxpayer and dependent was "purely political," even some Republicans conceded Mr. Truman may have made hay with individual voters while taking a poke at corporations.

The President asked that business taxes be boosted $3,200,000,000 to keep federal revenues at their present levels despite the proposed income tax slash.

Rep. Kean (R-NJ) commented to reporters that "the average voter has no great sympathy for an inanimate corporation," and Taft asserted, "It's smart politics, I guess, if it is smart to be smart."

The Ohioan is expected to reiterate Republican opposition to the compulsory price-wage and rationing controls for which Mr. Truman asked indirectly in a 43-minute message received by the lawmakers yesterday in a silence broken only six times by scattered applause.

Reports Chilly Reception

Rep. Robison (R-Ky) said the message got "the coldest reception of any I've heard in nearly 25 years."

The President's proposals for such social welfare legislation as national health insurance touched off Republican contentions that he is attempting to "out New-Deal the New Deal," as Senator Jenner (Ind) put it.

House Speaker Martin (Mass) commented that "the left wingers of the Democratic party must have prompted the message."

And Senator Ball (R-Minn), asserting that Mr. Truman's program 'sounds like one for a managed economy and socialization of America," added:

"I can't figure out why this administration has trouble getting along with Soviet Russia. They seem to want to take this country in the direction Soviet Russia is going as fast as possible."

Democrat Sees Taft Angle

Even a Democrat, Rep. Whitten (Miss) said he considers the message "rather to the left," but Mr. Truman's proposals were stoutly defended by many of his party members besides McGrath.

The Democratic chairman said the program "rises above partisan

RUMOR OF STALIN'S DEATH CIRCULATED

By The Associated Press

BERN, SWITZERLAND, Jan. 8—Two Bern newspapers speculated today that Prime Minister Stalin was dead. The Soviet embassy in London said there was nothing to the rumor.

Der Bund headlined its story 'Stalin dead?" in one edition, but changed this later to "About Stalin." This newspaper has good access to government sources in the Swiss capital. It said reports of Stalin's death had been the subject of conversations in the federal council, chief executive authority of Switzerland.

"There is a serious background to these reports," Der Bund said. It called the rumor "the topic of the day in Moscow." How it learned this was not clear. No Bern newspaper has a Moscow correspondent.

A Socialist newspaper, the Berner Tagwacht, used the headline "Stalin Died?" It said:

"Obviously the report of the death of Stalin was nourished and a certain credence given it by previous reports that Stalin was sick, that he was on crutches, and that a Swedish cancer specialist had been summoned to Moscow." Some of these reports, it added, might be attributed to "wishful thinking."

The Swedish cancer specialist is Dr. Elis Berven. He arrived in Moscow this week on a sum-

Rejection Predicted For Major Part Of Message.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8—Most of President Truman's major 1948 legislative proposals, particularly his tax reduction and anti-inflation plans, appeared headed today for a congressional wastebasket.

But several, including rent control extension, foreign aid, broadening social security coverage, higher minimum wages and civil rights guarantees, seemed likely to pass in compromise form.

Still others, such as national health insurance and compulsory military training, were lumped in the "highly doubtful" category.

Mr. Truman outlined the program yesterday in a 43-minute speech to a politically minded and election-conscious congress which reacted generally along partisan lines. Republicans claimed Mr. Truman was playing politics, Democrats credited him with statesmanship.

Expect Rejection

But leaders of both the Republican majority and the Democratic minority left little doubt they look for the President's tax and anti-inflation plans to be rejected after prolonged wrangling likely to lay the foundation for this year's presidential and congressional elections.

Mr. Truman asked congress to give every individual taxpayer an immediate cut of $40 for himself and each dependent and to offset the estimated $3,200,000,000—revenue loss by boosting corporate levies.

He asked also for the inflation curb powers he was denied last month, including standby wage-price control and rationing authority.

Describing his tax plan as a "cost of living" credit to provide relief for the low income group, the President said corporations are well able to make up the revenue loss.

Start On G.O.P. Bill

The immediate Republican reaction was to speed plans for passage of the G.O.P. bill to lop $5,600,000,000—from the tax take by boosting personal exemptions, applying the community property principle to all states and trimming all tax rates from the highest brackets down to the lowest.

Pending future strategy meetings—the house G.O.P. steering committee meets next week to look over the legislative program—party leaders privately predicted this outcome for other of Mr. Truman's proposals:

Compulsory Military Training—Unlikely to be passed despite the insistence of top members of the house armed services committee for action now.

Foreign Aid—The senate foreign relations committee starts hearings today on the administration's long-range plan to stem communism abroad by means of a multi-billion dollar European recovery program. There is little opposition to the principle of foreign aid but sharp disagreement over how much should be spent and who should supervise the program.

Social Security—Coverage likely will be broadened, but not as extensively as the President wants.

Minimum Wage Boosts—The President asked for a hike from 40 to 75 cents in the hourly minimum for unorganized industrial workers. A compromise of about 60 cents is in the making.

Civil Rights Guarantees—Republicans currently are preparing anti-lynching and anti-poll tax bills, both of which have better-than-good chances. Prospects for additional legislation along this line are dim.

National Health Insurance—The President's request for a national health program financed by compulsory insurance is in the "no-sale" category.

Housing—Mr. Truman's plea for a long-range, government-supported housing program so that "every American family has a decent home" may go unheeded.

Statehood for Alaska and Hawaii—"Perhaps Hawaii, but not Alaska at this time," said a top Republican.

Natural Resources Development—"If this means some more TVA's, it's out."

A Long Range Agricultural Program—Probably will be enacted eventually.

Displaced Persons—Relaxation of immigration restrictions to permit many of Europe's war-displaced refugees to enter the United States, is probable, although not certain.

Tariff Reduction—Modified extension of the reciprocal trade agreements act expiring in June is likely.

Federal Financial Aid to States to Equalize Educational Opportunities—Improbable.

UPHELD BY COURT. By a vote of 7-2, the U.S. Supreme Court has upset the conviction of Michael Di Re (above) of Buffalo. During the war he had been arrested and searched without a warrant when found riding in a car with a person suspected of holding counterfeit gas ration coupons. One hundred coupons were found between his shirt and undershirt and he was convicted of violating the Second War Powers Act of 1942. The court's majority opinion stated that the arrest violated the constitutional guarantee that "the right of the people, to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects against unreasonable searches and seizures" shall not be infringed on by anyone.

Roving Reports

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK

AN old meanie here has figured out a way to defeat one of America's most troublesome small-time racketeers — the woman shopper who takes out clothing on trial, wears it to a party tonight and returns it to the store tomorrow.

This man—it would be a man—is Walter W. Artzt, 43, a major manufacturer of infants' wear, whose hobby is inventing. He holds 11 patents in fields as various as denistry and textiles.

Hal Boyle

One of his latest is a sealtag which a salesman can automatically attach to any garment taken out on trial.

"The woman can not wear the garment out in public with the sealtag showing," said Artz with soft pride, "and she can't remove it without destroying it. If she does that the store of course can refuse to take the garment back."

This simple little gadget, he said, will help solve a $40,600,000 problem to the nation's department stores.

"It costs them that to clean suits, dresses and fur coats which women now take out and wear with no intention of buying."

Artzt is one of those businessmen with ideas who do perhaps more to change American patterns of life than do statesmen or poets.

"As a matter of fact I used to write poetry," he told me, "but I gave it up—no money in it."

THERE HAS BEEN MONEY in most of his ideas, however, but not in all. In Vienna when he was 11 years old a family friend showed him a movie and happened to mention that the film was made of the same substance as the phonograph record.

"In that case," the boy suggested logically, "why don't you put voices and music on the films, too, so you can hear as well as see them?"

His startled parents, fearful his mind had been affected by the new flicker novelty, wouldn't let him see another movie for two years.

"But sound movies are doing pretty well now," Artzt mused.

He came to America at the age of 18, saw a sign "Free Parking" and exultantly thought: "What a wonderful land—everything here is free!"

HE GOT A JOB as a dental technician and at 22 had four patents for devices in that field.

"But they aren't profitable," he said. "You can't go around poking into people's fillings to see if somebody cheated you out of a royalty."

Artzt switched to the textile business and spent the weekends taking knitting machines apart and putting them back together to learn their operation. In three months he had patented a new accordion knit that enabled the ladies to get more stretch where they needed it. Now he has a factory and sells its $2,000,000 annual output himself from a small office here.

His current interest is a new four-color deck of playing cards which he invented after he saw two bridge players get in a fist fight because one mistook the red nine of diamonds for the red nine of hearts.

HE CAME UP WITH THEM just before Christmas and sold 70,000 decks in a few days.

I told Artzt that since his new sealtags would annoy so many women shoppers he ought to at least placate them by inventing a runless stocking.

"That can be done," he said, "but who would manufacture it? Who would sell you the material to make it? A runless stocking would be a calamity to the hosiery business."

For a man with an original mind Artzt has one completely unoriginal ambition.

"I want to write a book," he said. He hopes it won't need sealtags.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wabbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

NODDED assent to Dicky's pronouncement, too anxious over what Olga would do, to smile at his correct analysis of the probable procedure of the marital colony of the Veritzens. I saw him cast a keen glance at me, and the next instant he was at the side of my chair, had taken my hands in his, and was pulling me up into his arms.

"Stand still," he whispered, gathering me into a close embrace and kissing me warmly. "I'll put you back in a minute, but I think you need a little of what Faith calls 'lovings.'"

"Oh, I do," I whispered back. "Thank you, darling. Tell me. Do you think Olga will do what Faith asks?"

"That's something that only de Lawd knows, and he ain't telling," my husband said with a heartening grin. "But you know Olga. She's never refused a request your father made yet, and she has the utmost confidence in him. Of course it's a pretty stiff proposition to put up to her. But she knows that if that dastard son of hers is to be kept from getting his hands on the treasure hidden in those secret caverns beneath the old castle, plenty of drastic measures will have to be taken. I really believe that she'll come through."

"You're better than any tonic in the world," I told him with a kiss. "I'm going to believe that, too."

"Just do that little thing," he said, putting me back in my chair, and going back to his own. "I wonder how long the conference will take."

It was fully five minutes before Philip came into the room, a Philip whose ego was plainly "sitting pretty."

"We have talked the whole thing over," he said pompously, drawing a chair opposite us, "and we have decided that we cannot let Charles down, after all he has done many signal services for Olga."

I wanted to add: "Including rescuing her from those terrorists after you had fumbled the job," but I held my tongue, and he went on.

"So, we both feel that even this extraordinary request of his must be honored. Olga is even now preparing the things for which he asked, and she has asked me to offer you some refreshment."

My relief was so great that for an instant, I could not speak. But I held up by hand in protest.

"We had a late dinner, "I said when I got back my voice. "I couldn't eat or drink anything."

"I'm on the wagon, too," Dicky said with a gamin grin at me. "Thank you just the same. Phil. Sit down and let's gab until Olga comes back."

"She said to tell you she wouldn't be long," Olga's husband said when he had taken a chair opposite to us. "You know how quick she is, but of course she is taking extra care with this copying. Now I've agreed to go through with this thing, but, to be plain with you, I'm exceedingly doubtful of the wisdom of it. You agree with me, don't you, that it means the forging of Olga's name and handwriting in social notes?"

"That looks like the answer," Dicky said with disarming agreement, "but then you never can tell with the Chief. We'll probably know a little more when we've talked with 'K' who brought us up here, but I fancy we won't know the whole story until we've seen dad."

"Where is Mr. 'K' by the way?" Philip asked.

Dicky hesitated for the fraction of a second, caught my eye, and my assenting nod, and told the truth.

"He's standing on guard just inside of the door leading to the stairs," he said. "He thought that there was a chance he might be followed here."

"Good God!" Philip Veritzen exclaimed. "In that case, he may very well be lying murdered out there. Those fellows never come singly. Come on."

Nobody ever has accused Philip Veritzen of physical cowardice. An old man, he was at the door almost before Dicky reached it.

"'K' can manage any three ruffians that ever ruffed," he said. "And he doesn't like to be tagged. Let me go first. He'll think we're coming out, and if he needs help, he'll give me the high sign."

But it was not the "high sign" which Mr. "K." gave when Dicky came to the door, but a shout.

"Get your wife back," he said, "and come a running."

Faith in Freedom

A PRESIDENTIAL message on the state of the union always is hard to comment on because there's so much of it. That's why news writers pick out a high spot and go over everything else once lightly, or not at all. This year they picked out Mr. Truman's proposal for cutting taxes on individual incomes and boosting them on corporate incomes—an important idea, but only a fraction of the presidential message.

This editorial might be written about that, or some other detail of the President's report on the state of the union. Instead, it is going to be written about something he said that would have been an empty generality under other circumstances.

"We are people with a faith," Mr. Truman said. "We believe in the dignity of man. We believe that he was created in the image of the Father of us all. We do not believe that men exist merely to strengthen the state or to be cogs in an economic machine. We do believe that governments are created to serve the people and that economic systems exist to minister to their wants. We have a profound devotion to the welfare and rights of the individual as a human being. The faith of our people has particular meaning at this time in history because of the unsettled and changing state of the world."

The President laid down this specification for solving the nation's problems:

"We seek answers which will embody the moral and spiritual elements of tolerance, unselfishness and brotherhood upon which true freedom and opportunity must rest."

Concluding the message, he said:

"This is the hour to rededicate ourselves to the faith in mankind that makes us strong. This is the hour to rededicate ourselves to the faith in God that gives us confidence as we face the challenge of the years ahead."

No one has stated the case for a revival of American faith in freedom any better than Mr. Truman has stated it. This newspaper will disagree with him on many things in the months ahead, but no one can disagree with him on the necessity of believing in the American tradition of individual rights—now more than ever.

Civilization has been hurt grievously by despots who have run amuck over the rights of people. It has been hurt, even in the United States, by an unreasonable and blind devotion to a credo of materialism that teaches human beings they are no better than animals; that they should be content to be bred, fed, worked and butchered, if necessary, by masters.

This cruel and inhuman cynicism has been incorporated as an ideology by a ghastly cabal of opportunities with a passion for power—and the minor fact the ideology bears various names does not change the great fact that it's always the same thing.

Its zealots are shrewdly exploiting the hopelessness of human beings who have no faith; who are content to be treated like animals. There is only one thing on earth that can stop them—people who do have faith and demand to be treated like human beings—people who will fight despotism wherever and whenever it lifts its bloody fist.

Mr. Truman has earned his countrymen's gratitude for making a clear statement on the fundamental issue in the world today—the issue between despots who think only governments have inalienable rights.

Look on Any Bill

OHIO Democrats have chosen W. A. Julian of Cincinnati as their "favorite son" presidential candidate to qualify the Ohio delegation for the national convention.

Mr. Julian's name should be more familiar than it is. As treasurer of the United States, he has had his signature on every bank note turned out by the government for more than 14 years. His signature has been reproduced millions of times. Look on any bill.

Despite this, he remains, outside the treasury and Democratic politics, an obscure and little-known figure. The most recent honor to come to him will do little to spread his fame.

Headlong Retreat

UNION support of Henry Wallace is vanishing like a snowdrift in a hot sun. William Green, Walter Reuther, James Carey and the New York and Illinois CIO have declared against his third party candidacy.

Before he announced his candidacy, there were plenty of Wallace supporters and apologists among the union leaders. Now that he has seen fit to toss his hat in the ring, the stampede for the exits has been terrific.

The union's defection is in part attributable to the support his third party program is receiving from the Communists. It also is attributable to the fact the union leaders don't want to cast their lot with a lost cause. The headlong retreat from the Wallace banner makes his cause look more abject every day.

Scanning the Record

By George E. Sokolsky

The Department of Hem and Haw.

THE American taxpayer spends money on the state department in the hope that it will know something about its business, which is foreign affairs. But usually when a state department official appears before a congressional committee, he admits to knowing nothing. The question is whether this ignorance is a pose or a reality. It might be a posed reality.

Here is an excellent example of their style. W. W. Butterworth is chief of the far eastern division of the state department. This was the colloquy:

SOKOLSKY

"Chairman Bridges. To what extent is Russia aiding the Communists in China?

"Mr. Butterworth. That is a question that is not susceptible to factual proof.

"Chairman Bridges. What is your judgment on it?

"Mr. Butterworth. When, you see, a few days before the end of the Japanese war, Russia invaded Manchuria, the Russian army captured at that time and upon the surrender of Japanese army in Manchuria, substantial quantities of arms. When the Russian troops withdrew . . . The Chinese Communists in that area appeared with Japanese arms in very substantial quantities. Those are the facts known to us.

"Chairman Bridges. Where did they get those Japanese arms?

"Mr. Butterworth. Well, the statements are made that they were acquired as 'abandoned arms.'

"Chairman Bridges. Do you subscribe to that?

"Mr. Butterworth. I neither subscribe nor not subscribe. Those were the facts, and the real important fact is that the Chinese Communists have the arms."

An Old Story

Don't we have intelligence officers, agents, spies, whatever you choose to call them, to find out where and how the Chinese Communists got those arms? As a matter of fact, Soviet Russia has been supporting their Chinese armed forces since 1927, and before that in 1924, they entered into a supply contract with Dr. Sun Yat-Sen. Is there nobody in the state departments that knows anything?

Again, this colloquy takes place:

"Senator Reed. Well, the natural assumption in the case of these arms that were found in the Communists' hands is that they were taken with the acquiescence, at least, of the Russians.

"Mr. Butterworth. Yes, sir.

"Senator Reed. I have tried to phrase that in a way that you could say 'yes' to.

"Chairman Bridges. If you are the head of the office of far eastern affairs of the state department in charge of China, you must have an opinion as to whether the Communists are being aided by Russia, is that not so?

"Mr. Butterworth. I quite agree with the senator in the assumption that they must have been taken at least with the acquiescence of the Russian authorities.

"Chairman Bridges. And that means, if that is true, that the Russians are aiding the Chinese Communists.

"Mr. Butterworth. Certainly at that time, if that assumption is correct, they did.

"Chairman Bridges. You have just said that it was true. You accepted Senator Reed's statement.

"Mr. Butterworth. Yes, sir."

Just Diplomatic

Butterworth could have said that "yes" in the first place without all that beating around the bush. But then he would not have been a diplomat. Yes, the Russians gave the Japanese arms to the Chinese Communists.

Senator Bridges made my point clearer than I do when he said to Mr. Butterworth:

"By the way, this morning when I made the statement to you that we should have somebody in the state department willing to tell the facts here, that was not saying that what you told us was false, but it was that I did not think you told all you knew, the whole truth."

To this Butterworth replied that he loved the truth so dearly that he avoided assumptions. Then this conversation took place:

"Chairman Bridges. But you do know that it is common knowledge among Chinese generally, and people who travel there, that this is a fact?

"Mr. Butterworth. That is the common assumption and has not been challenged authoritatively."

You see, you get nowhere. A state department employe seems to be trained to hem and haw, to hedge, to trim.

Comes Now
The Pruning Season

President Truman sends his annual budget message to Congress today.

Its reading will be followed by a brief recess while the conservatives are revived.

Indications are the President will ask 40 billion dollars to run the government for the next fiscal year. That's a lot of money, even with butter selling for a dollar a pound.

Still, everything is undeniably inflated, including Henry Wallace's nuisance value, and you can't run a cold war without the same kind of cash.

The Republicans, on the other hand, go along with the old adage that a penny saved is a vote made. As a consequence, any resemblance between the President's original requests and the appropriation bills finally enacted will be strictly unintentional.

That, of course, is as it should be. The system of checks and balances works best when you don't write any checks until you see what your balance is.

Virtue's Blackmail

By Stewart and Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

AT THE commencement of the most important congressional session in history, two men seem somehow larger than any others in the rather stunted throng. George C. Marshall and Arthur H. Vandenberg stand out, for the simple reason that the secretary of state and the Michigan senator now stand above politics. On them, in a quite liberal sense, depends the future of the European recovery program, and therefore the future of this country and of the free world.

In the gloomy forecasts of congressional action on the European recovery program, one major point has been overlooked. A public man who stands above politics enjoys a quite unusual power of what may be called virtuous blackmail over his colleagues down in the political mire. Two public men, both standing above politics, and acting together, can wield persuasions strong enough to reduce all the Speaker Martins, Representative Browns and Senator Wherrys to a condition of happy pliability. Disinterestedness is so rare a quality that it justly has its special perquisites.

The real question is not whether Marshall and Vandenberg (who must be the protagonists) are able to get the European recovery program through congress. The question is, rather, whether they are prepared to employ these strong persuasions, which must be their chief weapon in dealing with those who will not listen to reason. The signs suggest that they are so prepared.

Viewed as Crucial

From those close to Secretary Marshall, authoritative word has come that he regards the fight ahead as the final showdown. If the European recovery program is even dangerously reduced or restricted, he has privately said that he would not be responsible for the consequences. The indications are that he means to tell the senators and representatives as much, and couch the information in the bluntest language. There is even a chance that this public warning will be unconventionally supplemented in a private manner.

It is Secretary Marshall's known conviction that a reduced or restricted ERP will defeat the aims of American foreign policy, and bring disaster to the world. There is no reason why he should remain silently in office, presiding over a disaster against which he has warned. And there is equally no reason why these rather pertinent facts should not be made to penetrate even the most impenetrable congressional skulls.

The effect of such a move can be easily imagined. Perhaps Henry Agard Wallace, mooning among his fellow travelers, and the songbird Senator Glenn Taylor of Idaho, may be exceptions. But there are no other American politicians, even among the most extreme isolationists, who would care to have Secretary Marshall pin upon them and their friends the public responsibility for disaster to the United States. If they fear any such result as that, they are likely to come around.

Vandenberg's Position

As for Senator Vandenberg, his position is more complex. Today, he stands above politics. But he is still, by origin and training, a leader of the Republican party. His isolationist Republican colleagues are hard at work to make this conflict within Vandenberg operate in their favor. Not long ago, a semi-formal deputation of several senators waited upon him for this purpose, headed by Senator C. Wayland Brooks of Illinois. It must have amused Vandenberg to have Col. Robert R. McCormick's peculiar protege asking him for terms, considering that Brooks' master long ago relegated Vandenberg in the rather numerous and distinguished Benedict Arnold class.

Vandenberg made no terms with Brooks. But neither did he give him the rude answer he deserved. The reason was the special, and extremely astute strategy Vandenberg has adopted for the big fight. On the one hand, in accordance with this strategy he will retain his independence of the administration, in order to retain his authority in his party. But on the other hand, he will not yield on matters of substantive principle.

This is the explanation of his reference of the ERP administrative problem to the Brookings Institution. This also explains his shrewd change in the language of the bill, so that a continuing ERP is authorized without specifying the sum of $17 billions for four years, which may be more or less than enough. These are sound moves, and indicative of independence as well. By such careful planning, Vandenberg hopes to secure another unanimous report of his committee; and then, on the senate floor, will come the time to be unyielding.

Hooray For Henry!

Men For The Marshall Plan

By Walter Lippmann

THE agreement between Mr. Vandenberg and Mr. Lovett to delete the total figure of 17 billions is the first of several practical steps that need to be taken before the Marshall plan will be ready for general debate in Congress. It was a necessary first step. For there was no point in asking Congress to accept a figure which is at best only an educated guess as to what may be needed for a period of more than four years.

The naming of the figure in the authorization bill would not have meant that Congress was committed to appropriate that sum, and no European government would have been justified in regarding the figure as an American commitment which it could count upon and take for granted in its calculations.

LIPPMANN

But the American public and the European public would have been misled; they would not have understood easily why Congress named the definite figure of 17 billions in a law if that huge sum of money was not in fact promised and made available.

A second step which might now be taken is the negotiation of an agreement on the agency which is to administer the European recovery program. In fact, there is much to be said for separating the bill which creates the agency from the bill which contains the authorization of money and defines the standards which are to govern the use of it. If this were done, the bill for the agency could be reported to Congress and passed before the debates on the program itself began.

There are many practical advantages in this procedure. The greatest perhaps is that Congress and the people would know quickly who was actually going to handle the money and the whole complicated operation. If they have confidence in the men who are to operate the program, they will have greater confidence in the figures.

For these men, selected by agreement among the leaders of congress and the administration, will have to be men of eminence and experience. The fact that these men, who will be bearing the responsibility, vouch for the figures will be a better test of the soundness of the figures than any amount of prolonged, obtruse and abstract statistical calculation.

Most of the congressmen who have to vote will be in the position of a man who wishes to invest his savings prudently and profitably. In deciding where to invest he cannot really make up his mind by studying the financial prospectuses. He makes up his mind by looking at the names and the records of the directors and managers of the corporation.

Moreover, in this way an agreement on the agency should be easier to reach. There are some abstract differences in principle between the the State department plan, the Herter plan, the Bureau of the Budget plan and one or two other plans that will be proposed. But there is no point in debating these differences in the abstract, no point in getting into a wrangle about the blueprints of the organization.

Once there is the basic agreement on the men who are to administer the business, the heat will go out of the argument about principles.

Picking the Men

The men will obviously have to be men who are trusted by the president, by Secretary Marshall and by Congress. It will be these men, not the blueprints of organization, who will see to it that the program is consistent with our foreign policy and with the intent of congress.

By giving priority to the agency the congressional committees will be doing what Congress, in its vote for the interim aid bill, has already suggested. Section 14 of that law says that "the functions, applicable records and funds provided for the purpose of carrying out this act be transferred to the administration of any organization for general foreign aid which Congress may provide."

The interim aid bill provided funds which were to be used up by March 31. No one thought when that bill was passed, and few think, now, that the general foreign aid program will have been adopted and the funds appropriated by March 31.

Therefore it is a fair conclusion that Congress contemplated the creation of a new administrative organization for foreign aid early in this session.

There are other advantages to be gained by creating that agency first, and as soon as agreement can be reached on the form of organization and the men who are to be appointed. One is that Congress can then demonstrate concretely its general approval of the idea, and yet not commit itself to the substance of the program until it has had a full opportunity to debate it. This will have a salutory effect in Europe at a time when the strain of the winter and the tensions created by the debates here will be serious.

Picking the Men

Enactment of a short bill and the naming of the men will prove at once not only in London, Paris and Rome, but in Moscow, Prague and Warsaw, that Congress, while it means to deliberate and is no rubber stamp for the administration, does in fact mean business.

Stalin will understand it. For Stalin, we may recall, refused to believe that the British and Americans really meant to invade the continent until Roosevelt and Churchill had appointed a supreme commander. If, in a few weeks time, Congress creates the agency for the Marshall plan, everyone will understand that there is going to be a Marshall plan, however much delay there may be over the details of the program.

Another great advantage to be gained is that the European countries will have no further reason for delay in creating a European organization to police the commitments they made at Paris. The Marshall plan requires European co-operation, and no more time should be lost in organizing that co-operation. The European coun-

The Great Washington Porch Issue

That decision of Harry Truman to build a $15,000 porch on the White House has put the Marshall plan, global relief, peace, inflation and even the wheat speculation in the background. It may cost him the election. Anti porch parties are being set up all over America.

The Republicans already have a 1948 slogan to capitalize this issue: "A porchless White House was good enough for Lincoln; it's good enough for Truman!" With a supplementary one, "Even Roosevelt left the White House exterior alone."

Why Harry should need a porch when all previous Presidents manage to get along without one is something that has America by the ears. There are two main groups, those who think that if a porch eases the life of a President, he should have one, and those who champion the original White House architectural line. A third group has nothing against porches but thinks paying $15,000 for one is plain swank, and the worst blow the anti-inflation cause could get.

* * *

The President says he wants the porch so he and the family can get "some outside breathing space without exposing themselves to public view." That's nonsense on the face of it. This porch will be the most photographed porch in history and will get the Trumans more publicity than anything they have ever done.

* * *

Does the incident reveal a sudden change in Harry's character? Is he taking the bit in his teeth. Is he turning ornery on us?

A porch may seem a little thing (even forty foot by ten with iron rails and tile floors) but it represents a step never before taken by an American President and thus becomes an event of national significance. If we encourage Harry in this how far will he go? One porch may lead to another. He can develop a porch habit. And, unchecked, he may go on with plans to add a water-tower or a cupola. If it is the Missouri note that he is after what is to stop him from sticking a silo just east of the building and tossing in a chicken house and milkshed?

"I don't like the idea of an upper porch anyhow," said Elmer Twitchell today, "especially a $15,000 one. A ground-floor porch, Missouri style, plain wood, at around $400 with a rocker and hammock thrown in would be okay. But when you get into these fifteen-thousand-dollar mezzanine affairs you are putting on Palm Beach and Sutton Place airs."

* * *

"I was inclined to vote for Harry," Elmer continued "but not with a two-grand upstairs porch. I can understand a yen to sit out in his suspenders, pants, slippers and undershirt. Any president should be granted that privilege and comfort. But if we let him do it in a $15,000 porch he will want to do it in $500 suspenders. Americans, arise!"

Filing Systems

By TRUMAN TWILL

Until someone who hesitated to throw away a piece of printed matter that he might want to look at again thought up a filing system, wastepaper baskets were filled to the brim with nice fresh pieces of paper. The filing system has changed that.

The contents of wastepaper baskets now are a mixture of fresh pieces of paper that no one wants to look at again and dogeared, yellowed pieces of paper that someone might have wanted to look at again—but never look at after they were filed for future reference.

This fancy method of deferred destruction has given rise to the business of making filing cabinets, which are indispensable for making sure that printed matter is kept out of wastepaper baskets until a suitable number of years has elapsed. Acres of valuable space now are covered with filing cabinets—monuments to the triumph of string-saving.

The filing system is an endless source of comfort to those who hesitate—and lose. It is an ideal an answer as museums, balls of odds and ends of string, antique shops, old book shops and the junk yard at the end of town—a place where parting is such sweet sorrow that everything imaginable is preserved until tomorrow.

In observance of the beginning of a fresh year in newspaper business, we have just filled a wastepaper basket to the brim with printed matter removed from our filing system to make room for fresh printed matter that will repose in the system until some future date when it too will end up in the wastepaper basket.

It is to be hoped the janitor in handling this mellowed material may reap some benefit; no one else ever reaped any. Perhaps in a quiet moment he may want to edify himself about such things as income tax cuts that never happened, the maneuvers of John Lewis and his Mine Workers, the declining observance of Orangemen's day in the U.S.A., the case of Andrew J. May, the historic background of sovereignty, the life and times of the late President Quezon of the Philippines, the argument against selective service, the reasons why more money should be given to Britain, the history of joint committees of congress, the decline and fall of the Wisconsin Progressives and the rise of the Pullman Co.

We wish him all the luck in the world. Maybe he has a filing system of his own in which he can store up this valuable information against the day when he will want to lay his hands on it—a day that never comes.

You won't get a chance to forget this is an election year for president and most members of congress.

The Democrats and Republicans will be blaming one another all year for the things that go wrong at home and abroad.

You'll get hit from both sides. In the end you'll have to find your own answer. You got a taste yesterday of what's in store.

Yesterday President Truman told congress what he thinks it should do in 1948 to make this a better world to live in.

But he was talking to a congress controlled by Republicans and he's pretty sure to be the Democrats' candidate for president.

MARLOW

As soon as he had finished the Republicans started calling his speech a political speech to get votes. The Democrats, or some of them, said it was fine.

But even the Republicans weren't agreed on why they didn't like it. Rep. Taber of New York said part of it was "reactionary." Rep. Halleck of Indiana said it was aimed at getting "radical votes."

Since the Democrats and Republicans will be bouncing that speech around all year, what do you think? Was it good, bad, radical or reactionary?

Here's an example of what you'll be up against, if you're one of the people who want an income tax cut:

Rep. Knutson, Minnesota Republican, has a tax-cut plan. Everybody would get a cut and 7,400,000 people would be saved from paying taxes at all.

Under this plan the government would lose $5,600,000,000. The tax on corporations wouldn't be changed.

Mr. Truman came along yesterday with his own plan for cutting taxes. Under that one everyone would also get a cut and perhaps 10,000,000 people would be saved from paying any tax.

BUT MR. TRUMAN SAYS the government wouldn't lose on this deal. He'd raise the tax on corporations to make up for what was lost by cutting individuals' taxes.

Right away the Republicans said boosting corporation taxes would discourage business. They said they don't want any part of the Truman plan. They said they'll push Knutson's through.

Suppose they pass Knutson's plan and Mr. Truman kills it with a veto. He might do it on the grounds that Knutson's plan would cost the government money while his wouldn't.

Then, if the Republicans refused to pass Mr. Truman's plan, you'd get no tax cut in 1948. Who'd be to blame? Mr. Truman or the Republicans.

Then there's the cost of living. A couple of months ago Mr. Truman asked congress for power to put back price control if he thought it was needed.

THE REPUBLICANS refused. Mr. Truman asked for it again yesterday. Will the Republicans give it to him? Maybe not.

Then who'll be to blame—Mr. Truman or the Republicans—if prices climb out the window? You think it's easy to tell? Just look back a bit.

Who really ended OPA? That happened only little over a year ago. Mr. Truman says the Republicans did it. Some of them say he did it. Who did it? Do you know for sure?

But the blame-calling won't be limited to 1948 or even the last three years in which Mr. Truman has been president.

Only yesterday Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York—he'll be looking for the presidential nomination—had word to say on high living costs.

First, he blamed Mr. Truman. Then he went way back and blamed some of President Roosevelt's policies in the 1930's.

So you'll probably be hearing a lot about Roosevelt, too, in 1948—from the Republicans.

Tonight Senator Taft of Ohio, an out-and-out candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, will make a radio talk to answer Mr. Truman's talk of yesterday.

Listen to it and, just to start the New Year off right, try to decide whether you agree with Mr. Truman or Taft, or either.

Bassett Jr., and his 14-year-old bride, the former Luciana Parri, of Italy, leave the altar of "The Little Church Around the Corner" in New York City after their wedding. Weddings

Linden Heights Methodist church in Columbus was the scene of the wedding Sunday, Dec. 28, of Miss Beatrice May Frazier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray C. Frazier of Columbus, to Willard Morral Davidson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Foster A. Davidson of north of Marion. The couple repeated their vows at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon before the altar decorated with winter pine and lighted candles in candelabra. Rev. C. R. Williamson officiated.

Preceding the ceremony, a half-hour program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Joseph L. Kolburn, vocalist, and Mr. Kolburn, organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of heavy white satin styled with a bateau neckline, long sleeves, and a tunic effect over the bouffant skirt which extended into a short train. Her full length veil, belonging to her matron of honor, fell from a braided satin tiara. She carried a Bible topped with shattered white carnations and showered with satin streamers.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was Mrs. James W. Willis, and maid of honor was Miss Vivian Young. They wore gowns of taffeta in a mint green shade with long mitts and braided tiaras in their hair. Each carried a bouquet of yellow and white daisies.

Dr. Richard S. Davidson of Wooster served as best man for his brother, and ushers were Wayne Leister of Bloomville, John Cottrell and Eugene Miller of Marion.

A reception was held in the church social rooms following the ceremony. The bride's table was centered with a three tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Lighted tapers completed the decorations. Serving were Miss Dorothy Goelz, Mrs. John Cottrell, Mrs. Richard Davidson and Mrs. Eugene Miller.

Mrs. Frazier received the guests in a royal blue crepe dress with white trim, and Mrs. Davidson was attired in a light blue dress with rhinestone trim. Each wore a corsage of white carnations.

When the couple left on a wedding trip through the south and southwest, Mrs. Davidson was wearing a suit topped with a gray squirrel coat and a corsage of gardenias.

Mrs. Davidson is a graduate of North High school in Columbus and attended Ohio State university where she was affiliated with Alpha Chi Omega sorority. Mr. Davidson, a graduate of Harpster High school, served two years in the U. S. Navy and is now associated with his father in agriculture.

Announcement is being made of the marriage of Mrs. Mildred Landon of 466 North Grand avenue and Ben Miller of 437 North Greenwood street which took place Dec. 19, at the home of Mrs. Landon. Dr. Edwin A. Brown, pastor of Wesley Methodist church, read the ceremony at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Mrs. Landon wore a gray dress and white accessories. Her daughter, Mrs. John Smith, was her attendant. She wore a yellow and green costume and matching accessories. Charles Hattery served as best man for Mr. Miller. The couple will make their home at 466 North Grand avenue. Mr. Miller is a painter with the Marion Power Shovel Co.

CUPID WINS AGAIN. Happily reunited, ex-GI James Montouri of Brooklyn is pictured with his Italian war-bride-to-be, Emma Cerroni, after her release from Ellis Island, New York, by immigration authorities. The pretty girl was detained when she arrived in the U.S. a few hours after the expiration of the legal deadline for entry of foreign fiancees of American GIs. A flood of protests prompted officials to release Emma and a number of other girls held at immigration station.

Couple Exchange Marriage Vows In Church Here

THE silver wedding anniversary of the bridegroom's parents was chosen by Miss Avonelle Sifritt and Ervin Blackford for their wedding which took place Christmas day, in Emanuel Lutheran church. The bride is the daughter of Fire Chief Owen A. Sifritt of 186 South Prospect street, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Blackford of 453 Windsor street. The double ring candlelight ceremony was read at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon before the altar decorated with two lighted Christmas trees and candles in two seven-branch candelabra. The pastor, Rev. M. E. Hollensen, officiated.

A program of nuptial music was presented preceding the ceremony by Mrs. William Ackerman, organist, and Miss Dorothy Rhodes, vocalist. Mrs. Ackerman's selections included "Liebestraum," "Estrellita," "Always," "I Love You Truly," and "To Each His Own." Miss Rhodes sang "Because" and "Through the Years." During the ceremony, Mrs. Ackerman played "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" and "Glimmering Tapers." While the candles were being lighted by Miss Barbara Ehmann, cousin of the bridegroom, Mrs. Ackerman played "Silent Night." At the close of the ceremony as the couple stood at the altar, Miss Rhodes sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory satin fashioned with an off-the-shoulder neckline with a yoke of net illusion, leg o'mutton sleeves and a full skirt which extended into a long train. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a tiara of pearlized orange blossoms. Her jewelry was a cameo brooch which belonged to her mother and cameo earrings, a gift from the bridegroom. Her flowers were red and white roses.

Miss Lucille Blackford, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor and the bride's only attendant. She was attired in a gown of aqua colored taffeta. The bodice was styled with an off-the-shoulder neckline and the skirt was accented with a bustle. She wore a matching shoulder length veil and her flowers were pink carnations.

Norman Blackford, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man, and ushers were Maurice Harruff and Marvel Hart.

The bridegroom's mother chose for the wedding a silver gray dress with which she combined powder blue and black accessories. Mrs. Hamilton Blackford, paternal grandmother of the bridegroom, was attired in black with matching accessories. Each wore a corsage of gardenias.

A reception for 100 guests was held in the church social rooms following the ceremony. The bride's table was laid with a linen cloth which had been used at the wedding reception for the bridegroom's parents 25 years ago and held two three-tiered cakes. One was topped with a silver arch and silver bells with the number "25" written on the top. The traditional wedding cake was topped with an archway of orange blossoms and a miniature bride and bridegroom. Lighted tall white tapers completed the decorations. Serving were Mrs. Marvel Hart, Miss Joan Lockwood and Miss Maxine Unland.

Mrs. Blackford was graduated from Harding High school with the class of 1946. Mr. Blackford served two and a half years with the U. S. Navy. For the present, the couple are making their home with Mr. Blackford's parents.

WHOLESALE MILK PRICE NEAR PEAK

By International News Service

COLUMBUS, Jan. 8—The price paid Ohio farmers for milk sold wholesale continued to advance during last November, the average price of $5.15 per hundred pounds being the second highest of any month on record.

The U. S. department of agriculture bureau of agricultural economics pointed out today that the November price was exceeded only by the $5.56 average paid in November of 1946.

Quantities delivered to both the principal Ohio fluid markets and milk manufacturing plants, however, showed sharp decreases from the October level. The 21 fluid markets received an estimated 128 million pounds of milk during November, a decrease of 22 million from the previous month. Manufacturing plant receipts were down 31 million pounds.

Although the decreased production is seasonal, the department pointed out the drop this year was from two to three times the decreases in the same months of 1946.

FEDERAL RESERVE PROFIT SHOWS GAIN

By International News Service

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8 — The Federal Reserve board estimated today that Federal Reserve banks in 1947 showed a net profit of 94 million dollars—three million dollars above the previous year.

The board said "preliminary figures" indicate that earnings amounted to 158 million dollars with expenses totaling 65 millions. The board observed:

"After adding profits on sale of government securities and deducting noncurrent charges, net earnings for the year amounted to 95 million dollars."

The board said that from the profit, the Federal Reserve banks paid 12 millions dollars in dividends to their member banks and 75 million dollars to the treasury as interest on outstanding Federal Reserve notes.

Transfers of surplus amounted to about eight million dollars.

TRAIN-SLED TRAGEDY BURIALS CONCLUDED

By The Associated Press

ARCHBOLD, O., Jan. 8 — This northwestern Ohio village, steeped in tragedy since a locomotive smashed through a tractor-drawn bobsled Sunday afternoon and killed 10 children, picked up its daily life again today.

Townsfolk went about their tasks, and the grade and high school, closed for three days for funerals, reopened.

Two of the children were buried in one grave Tuesday. Eight were buried yesterday, four in each of two graves.

While ministers read the services calling for faith, two other children, Shirley Grieser, 9, and Janice Wyse, 7, lay in a hospital with their legs shattered. Janice's father, Jesse Wyse, had driven the tractor that pulled the sled into the locomotive's path. Her 14-year-old brother, John, somehow escaped injury.

Over the four caskets of the two sons and two daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Grieser—Donald, 13; Marlin, 11; Arlene, 10, and Janice, 4—Rev. Phil Frey had said:

"The hand of God rules over all. Everything He does is well done, and we are to take His acts in that spirit."

Rev. Reuben Short preached the second funeral sermon, for the four daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Grieser — Gayle, 13; Charlene, 11; Patricia, 8, and Sharon 6.

"This is no waste with God," he said. "No life is wasted with God and catastrophe causes men to forget differences, draws them together to be more neighborly, to love each other more. God never makes mistakes."

Twenty-two boys from the Pettisville school bore the coffins of the Raymond Grieser children while 22 boy classmates of the Lawrence Grieser girls were their pallbearers.

Two large graves for each family's four children received the flower laden caskets.

Tuesday, Archbold had buried Jean Osborne, 12, and her sister, Marjorie, 16.

Yesterday's services both were attended by 1,600 mourners, although Archbold's population is only 1,234.

REV. ERNEST FINKENBINER

Rev. Finkenbiner To Speak Tonight, Friday

Rev. Ernest Finkenbiner of Bellefontaine, formerly of Marion, deputation secretary for Christian Missions Inc., will speak at special services of the Maranatha Bible church tonight and tomorrow night as part of the preparatory prededication meetings for the church.

First service of the series was held Wednesday night with Rev. Lanne Beausay of Upper Sandusky as the speaker. He will speak again at the special service of dedication Sunday afternoon.

The church building was purchased last summer by the Maranatha congregation under leadership of Rev. Earl L. Holliday, pastor, from First Church of the Nazarene. After redecoration and repair work was completed recently, the congregation began its full time schedule of services there last Sunday. At the Wednesday night service Rev. Beausay and his son, William, presented several accordion-and vibraharp numbers, Miss Phyllis Beausay, a daughter, sang, and Mrs. Beausay presented a chalk talk on "The Two Ways."

STATE INSTITUTION CORPS ON INCREASE

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 8—Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood reported today that 78 full-time physicians now are employed in state institutions for mental patients compared to 59 years ago.

Despite the increase, about 50 vacancies remain for doctors in various state institutions, the director said.

"While we have made definite gains in our program to secure additional professional assistance, the state is still faced with the same problem facing other states and governmental agencies, as well as private and public hospitals. We have a long way to go in adequately staffing our institutions," Sherwood said.

A survey of state institutions showed not only 20 per cent increase in the number of physicians now employed, but almost double the number of registered nurses employed compared with January last year.

Registered nurses now employed total 116 compared with 61 last year. The institutions also employ 82 nursing instructors against 52 a year ago.

Salary schedule adjustments were made during the past year to attract more physicians and nurses into the state service, Sherwood said.

"There are many who believe that increasing salaries alone is the answer to obtaining more physicians," Sherwood said. "However, other governmental agencies, which have salary schedules in excess of Ohio's, despite the higher pay have been unsuccessful in filling their professional needs.

"The fact still remains that there are too few psychiatrists in the United States. The war years and years which have followed have placed greater stress on our mental hygiene and have produced case-loads far in excess of the number of doctors required to handle all cases."

Strike Halts Vital Akron Rail Service

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., Jan. 8—Workers on a railroad shuttling industrial freight between Akron and Barberton went on strike today for extra pay and working rules changes. The walkout by 40 members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen stopped movement of raw materials and finished products over the 24-mile stretch of the Akron and Barberton belt line.

All of Akron's rubber companies, save Firestone Tire and Rubber Co., use the line, owned jointly by the Erie, Baltimore and Ohio, and the Akron, Canton and Youngstown railroads.

Industrial spokesmen—with the exception of the Columbia Chemical division of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass—said the effects of the strike would not be felt for several days.

The United States uses about 130 million railroad ties every year, enough to build 43,000 miles of track.

could have produced a "Charley the Mike."

His deft touch and barbed style of writing brought to political propaganda a finesse and diction never before known. He performed for Franklin D. Roosevelt one of the biggest press agent jobs of all time in promoting the first third-term ever voted a president.

Just before that campaign started he had expressed the personal belief that Mr. Roosevelt would "rather come down with a case of hives than suffer another four years in the White House."

Close as they were, even Mr. Roosevelt couldn't figure out the strange, gray, fuzzy little man whom he dubbed "Charley the Mike," after his fashion with friends. Veteran White House reporters doubted that any other man ever told "The Boss" so potently when he thought he was wrong.

Mr. Roosevelt said Michelson reminded him of Aristophanes, that fierce old Greek comic dramatist who was a master of stinging scorn and banter. Once in the heyday of "recovery" spending, reporters asked Mr. Roosevelt:

"What's new, Mr. President?"

The President turned toward Michelson, who sat glum, homely, brooding and aloof, and remarked "Charley the Mike's too stingy to buy a haircut."

Retorted Michelson: "It's about time someone around here tried to economize."

At the time of the American Revolution, the American Merchant Marine numbered around 2,400 ocean-going ships with an aggregate of 400,000 gross tons—more than half as much as Great Britain's.

No need to pay high prices for a good cough syrup. Get PINEX at any drug store. Guaranteed to satisfy.

PINEX America's Largest Selling COUGH SYRUP

Thanks, Folks . . .

Thanks for your confidence. We have just closed our books with the biggest sales total in the long history of this store. Again, thanks.

Early last year we promised that we would continue to hold the price line and our greatly lowered margin of profit proves that we have done so. Your increased patronage has shown clearly that you had faith in our promises.

So once again we pledge you our word that we shall continue to absorb any price advances which may be placed upon us. We shall continue to sell good, guaranteed merchandise at our old prices regardless of cost. Many of these prices are way below the old OPA price ceilings.

There are a number of items such as Electrical Appliances and some few other items which are "fair traded" in Ohio. On such items we are obliged by law to sell at the price fixed by the manufacturer. In all other cases you may continue in the faith that we shall save money for you.

We are very proud of our reputation for lower prices. And we are very proud also to tell you that you are always sure of a friendly welcome at the busy store where every employee is proud to be associated not grumblingly, but boasting that he is the best paid man in the city in his line of work.

To all of the fine folks who have never traded with us we extend a special invitation to give us a trial. You will like our prices—you will like trading with us and you can just bet your last dollar that we will please you or we don't want your money.

VET LUMBER YARD EMPLOYE RETIRES

Harvey B. Cosgrove Quits After 43 Years.

After 43 years of service with Marion lumber yards, Harvey B. Cosgrove of 124 Patten street retired as yard foreman at the Marion Lumber Co., 200 Oak street, effective Jan. 1. He worked first for the Prendergast Lumber Co., starting there in 1904, and remained with the concern when it became the Wollenweber Lumber Co. and later the present Marion Lumber Co.

His first job was driving a horse-drawn wagon.

A native of Morral, he was born May 29, 1881, a son of Mr. and Mrs. George Cosgrove. He was engaged in farming at the time of his marriage to Miss Stella Sloat of Marion Oct. 20, 1904. He then became an employe of the Prendergast Co. and served in various capacities including lumber grader.

The Cosgroves have one daughter, Mrs. Florence Johnson of Coral Gables, Fla. A hobby in which he has engaged throughout the years is the making of furniture. Numerous pieces of the Cosgroves' household furnishings have been fashioned by Mr. Cosgrove and he has also built a house trailer. He plans to keep busy with odd jobs of carpentering. Whenever some one asks him if he plans a trip to Florida, he answers that he "guesses not now" because his favorite pet, his dog, Skippy, who is rather well up in years for the canine world, would not be able to make the journey with the family.

Sale of 25 New Cars Reported Here in Week

The first week of the new year brought happy tidings to 25 Marion county persons waiting for new model automobiles. A transfer of 25 new cars and two new trucks to their new owners was recorded since Dec. 30, according to Clerk of Courts Calvin Oborn. Five more cars were delivered in the week ending today than during the period Dec. 25 to 30, while truck sales remained at two for both periods. The week of Dec. 18 to 24 was a banner one for truck purchasers with five trucks delivered. Twenty-one cars were transferred during the same period.

Lab Worker Gets Common Cold From Inoculated Eggs

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

CLEVELAND, Jan. 8—A scientist who gets a cold every time he opens an egg in the laboratory of the national health institute at Bethesda, Md., is bad news for the hopes of finding a cure for the common cold.

These Bethesda eggs are special, because they contain embryonic chicks, inoculated with common cold infection from human beings.

The fluids of the egg give the cold back to humans, who have a bit of the liquid placed in their noses. But this scientist gets a cold just by working with the eggs.

He gets one cold right after another. That fact, reported to the American Medical association here by Dr. Milton V. Veldee, is causing the worry. Dr. Veldee said that it might be expected the repeated exposures to the infection, and certainly the repeated colds, would build up some immunity, the same a being vaccinated.

The failure dashes hopes of quick discovery of a common cold vaccine via the hens egg route.

An odd thing is that the embryonic chick fluids show no signs of common cold.

Where the cold virus hides in the egg is not known, and until that secret can be solved, it appears difficult to isolate and purify the stuff. If the virus can be extracted the scientists will have a useful material for many kinds of experiments looking for either vaccines or common cold treatments.

Dr. Veldee reported a new obstacle to use of flu vaccine. In an outbreak last spring, the flu vaccines failed to give any protection. The reason was a change in the virus causing flu. It no longer was susceptible to the vaccine.

If, he said, the flu infections change their character, as last spring, it will require, for each change, about one year's delay in developing a new vaccine.

Between 1840 and 1850 about 1,000 clipper ships were in operation, most of them controlled by U. S. business men.

MYSTERY OF ALASKAN DEATHS IS UNSOLVED

By The Associated Press

ANCHORAGE, ALASKA, Jan. 8—The mystery of how two Alaska men, one a prominent businessman, died in a home in the isolated Bristol Bay settlement of Dillingham, remained unsolved today.

The bodies of the victims, Harold W (Tubby) Griffin, 45, and Martin Ernestus, 42, fisherman and cannery worker, were flown here by federal bureau of investigation agents. A four-hour autopsy yesterday failed to find a solution to the deaths.

Mrs. Griffin was reported in a critical condition at Kanakanak. She was found in the Ernestus home with the two dead men, and a visitor from Dillingham yesterday reported she has a fractured wrist and possible skull fracture.

The FBI said the two men had neither knife nor bullet wounds. Their organs were to be sent to the FBI laboratory in Washington, D. C.

Griffin was a football center at the University of Iowa in the mid 1920's and on graduation organized and played on the Portsmouth, O., Lions, one of the early pro football teams. He came west to Seattle and later went north to the Bristol Bay country to manage the Lowe Trading post. He was also manager of the Bristol Bay Chamber of Commerce.

Uncover Stone Towers Of Mysterious Tribe

By International News Service

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. — A prominent University of New Mexico anthropologist has uncovered another of the stone towers which were once the mountain homes of a mysterious Indian tribe in Northern New Mexico.

Dr. Frank C. Hibben said that the towers, of which approximately 100 can be counted just north of Cuba at Rattlesnake Point on the road to El Vado Lake, were nearly 30 feet high.

The tribes, which lived around 1200 A. D., apparently migrated to New Mexico from a plains section, possibly the Missouri Valley, according to the anthropologist.

One of the most curious facts about the odd structures is that every one of the 100 towers was systematically burned — apparently by some enemy that hated the tribes very much according to Dr. Hibben.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that 666 Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the 666 Tonic formula which contains special and potent acting ingredients.

Also, 666 Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red-blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.

Thad's Feet Hurt

After a long, hard day's work on the farm, Thad's idea of how to spend an evening is to take off his shoes, and relax with a mellow glass of beer.

But his mission has other ideas. After being in the house all day, she's all for walking to the village. If it's only for a while, Ellen is the people, catch the latest gossip. But Thad says, no, his feet hurt! So, she goes unaccompanied to Thad's home.

Then Bill Webster comes up with an idea. If Thad takes the mission to Andy's Corner Tavern, Thad can relax with his glass of beer, and the others can also chat with all the neighbors there. Both get his (or her) own way.

Weekend, too! In fact, now the colonel likes an occasional beer, an glass of beer himself. And I think it's pleasanter to relax home with good company than alone. In fact, I'm beginning

CITES VALUE OF HIGH SCHOOLS

Need for More Young People To Finish Course Stressed by State Director.

By International News Service

COLUMBUS, Jan. 8—If soap operas beset you, if movie villains plague you, if you're worried about the Russians or racial intolerance, at least part of your problems can be traced to—of all things—the boy next door who didn't graduate from High school.

So says Ohio's education director, Clyde Hissong, who believes that many of the nation's ills can be traced to a problem that has been given very little attention—the 40 per cent of the students who enter but never graduate from High school.

Hissong has a chart showing that progression through all four High school grades is far from a normal thing. In fact, Hissong claims, "instead of being normal as is commonly supposed, graduation for the boy or girl who enters High school is barely average."

He points out that 20 per cent of the students who do graduate go on to college. Another 20 per cent enter trade schools. That leaves 60 per cent who just drift into a job.

Presents Problem

"Educators," Hissong says, "have given much consideration to the problem of this floating 60 per cent, but I'd like to raise the problem of the boy or girl who never makes graduation day.

"This problem was barely suggested by the regional meeting of vocational directors and chief state school officer at Chicago last March and a similar meeting in Los Angeles in December."

Ohio's head educational administrator believe the student who drops out of school does not get the proper background in such studies as American history, English literature, civics and the rest of the social studies to appreciate truly the culture in which he lives.

This Hissong says, is one of the causes of racial and religious intolerance, bad government and even wars.

Moreover, he believes, "the non-High school graduate probably feels inferior. I know I would. In an age when the High school diploma is the minimum education requirement, they are blocked from getting even very ordinary positions.

"These people," Hissong continues, "can't even go to the parties and dances of their one-time friends. They feel out of their own social group.

"And when that happens—when they feel inferior—the first reaction is to knife someone in the back. Perhaps not intentionally, but the feeling is there. They're like the person who feels inadequate in the social and business world and so uses alcohol either to escape or bolster his courage."

The problem, as Hissong puts it, is, "What can we do in modifying our school programs to offset this high mortality rate?"

A Local Problem

He claims:

"There is no state solution. It's a challenge to each local school system to make a survey of each loss. To discover why each student drops out, what he is doing now, and to adjust the school program to meet the needs."

"School teachers and administrators are vaguely conscious of this problem," Hissong says, "but they are not aware of its enormity.

"However, if Ohio pioneers in this study, then perhaps Michigan, Pennsylvania, Illinois and the other surrounding states will see what can be accomplished and something will be done about this problem on a national scale."

FIRE GUTS HISTORIC CINCINNATI BUILDING

CINCINNATI, Jan. 8—Central Turner Hall, 100 years old and once a mecca of night and social life in Cincinnati, was gutted by fire early today.

Fire Chief Barney J. Houston, estimated the damage to the "over the Rhine" landmark at $100,000. The flames destroyed the roof, attic and fourth floor. Ten bowling alleys were destroyed. The second and third floors were damaged badly, while water flooded offices of many labor unions and fraternal organizations and a postal sub-station.

Twenty-two families living in apartments nearby were routed from their beds.

Seventeen fire companies responded to a fourth alarm as flames shot more than a hundred feet into the air from the building which once was used to train and house soldiers during the Civil war. The fire as brought under control in little more than an hour.

The hall is located in the "Over the Rhine" district settled by German immigrants a hundred years ago.

Cause of the fire was not determined. Chief Houston ordered an investigation.

Rail Brotherhood Negotiations Set

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Jan. 8—A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, was under orders from the union's general chairmen today to begin negotiations for 15-day vacations and time-and-a-half pay for Sunday and holiday work. Members now receive a seven-day vacation.

The general chairmen also directed Whitney "to implement a national wage movement should inflation continue on its reckless orgy."

The BRT recently reached agreement with the nation's carriers for a 15½ cent hourly pay increase and four rule changes.

Ohio Pastors To Hear Two Wallace Speeches

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 8 — Henry A. Wallace, the third-party candidate for president, will speak twice before the Ohio Pastors' convention here Jan. 28.

The announcement came today from Dr. B. F. Lamb, executive secretary of the Ohio Council of Churches, who said the convention represented the states's Protestant ministers.

Approximately 3,600 pastors normally attend the convention, he added. Dr. Lamb said the invitation was extended to Wallace a year ago, but that he had just recently accepted.

780 ABOARD LEAKING SHIP AWAIT RESCUE

By The Associated Press

TOKYO, Jan. 8 — Fifty-foot waves lashed the disabled Russian ship Dvina off northeast Japan today, but her condition was regarded as improved and officials considered towing the vessel and her 780 passengers to safety.

Three rescue ships were standing by and six others were hurrying toward the leaking vessel, which had been pounded by massive waves 24 hours. The heavy seas prevented any attempt to remove the passengers during a daylong, American directed rescue effort.

Standing by the stricken ship at nightfall were a Russian patrol boat, the tanker Yoko Maru and the freighter Taihoku Maru, the latter two Japanese manned. A second Russian ship was reported two hours distant and six American controlled but Japanese-manned vessels were enroute to lend assistance.

Naval authorities said her situation was "considerably improved" and it might be possible to tow the Dvina to shore.

Earlier reports had said the ship might sink in a few hours.

VITAL LABOR UNION HEARING SET TODAY

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8—One of the toughest problems under the Taft-Hartley labor law came before the national labor relations board today for decision in an AFL attempt to enter the solidly CIO-organized steel industry.

Separate cases involve the point whether the new labor law permits a craft unit—a group of specially skilled workers—to be severed from the main group of industrial workers in two Ohio steel mills for collective bargaining purposes.

Frank Donner, attorney for the CIO Steelworkers headed by CIO President Philip Murray, told a reporter:

"These cases will decide whether there will be labor peace in the steel industry or whether there will be violent jurisdictional rivalry between the CIO and the AFL."

The dispute involves the traditional struggle of the craft vs. the industrial type of union organization.

It is the crux of the difference between the AFL, which leans toward craft organization, and the CIO, which split away from the AFL in favor of unionizing entire industries regardless of what type of work the individual employes do.

The old Wagner labor relations act left it entirely up to the NLRB to determine what type of bargaining unit it deemed proper. And for the steel industry, at least, the board always favored the industrial type of bargaining unit—blanketing in all craftsmen with steelworkers for union representation.

The two cases which the NLRB scheduled for argument today involve the American Rolling Mill company, Middletown, O., and the National Tube company, Lorain, O.

Pilgrims Visit Holy City At Peril During Arabs' Siege

By JAMES M. LONG
Associated Press Writer

JERUSALEM, Jan. 8—The Hill of Crucifixion where Christ died and the holy sepulchre from which He arose are virtully closed to Christians by the Arab state of armed siege within the walled old city district of Jerusalem.

Jews are barred from the ancient wailing wall, now under the tommyguns of Arab guards, and the robed Moslems who walk down the narrow cobbled street to the guarded gates of the mosque of Omar on the site from which Mohammed ascended to paradise carry rifles openly.

None of this is the intent of the of the heightening terror of vitual milling tense Arab throngs within of the heightening terror of virtual civil war over the partitioning of Palestine.

In evidence that the holy places still are open—if pilgrims dare to venture there—I entered through the tightly guarded Jaffa gate and walked three hours through jammed bazaars teeming with veiled women, children, vendors, goats, burros and men armed with every type of gun to visit all three shrines.

A Better Passport

When armed men stopped us my Arab companion hesitated to explain that I was an American. Heretofore friendly Arabs now know America as one of the leaders in the United Nations plan to divide Palestine. So in the land where Christian and Saracen fought to death through the crusades it now oddly proved a better passport to say only that I was a Christian.

Everywhere in the walled city I was regarded with suspicion, but so far as I could tell no harsh or threatening words were passed. In one tiny bazaar street I was invited into a boxlike cobbler shop for Turkish coffee brewed over a coal brazier. The shopkeeper deposited his Luger automatic on the table beside the coffeecups.

An old woman came limping past begging alms for her suffering from terrorists outside the walls. Given a few coppers she pulled back her yellow veil to show bandages she said covered wounds suffered in the bombing of the Damascus gate.

Glimpses of Shrines

Later I saw a robed sheik in flowing white headdress emerge from the great gateway to the blue-hued mosque of Omar through whose open arches could be seen the garden of Gesthsemane and the Mount of Olives. He was followed by an attendant carrying a submachinegun under his arm.

The few blue-uniformed Palestine police in the narrow streets made no attempt to disarm Arabs whose weapons showed plainly. They intervene only when there is shooting. Outside the walls it is another matter. There police are committed to disarming anyone found with weapons.

I saw no guards of any kind—not even the usual Arab street-block of young sentries—around the huge Church of the Holy Sepulchre. The young Arab guide there said he had seen only three or four Christian visitors, other than for Christian Arabs who come daily, in the weeks since partition fighting virtually sealed off the old city.

The vendor in the postcard and relic shop just outside the church offered to cut his prices, then shrugged and said "no one comes now."

Inside, past the tiny crosses crusaders carved in the stone entry walls, where the great domed building covers both the low Hill of the Crucifixion and the Tomb from which the stone was rolled, rituals of the highest sanctity are carried on quietly by the Christian monks waiting for the day of peace and pilgrimages.

MAJ. GEN. KUTER NAMED CIVIL AERONAUTICS HEAD

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8—President Truman today selected Maj. Gen. Laurence S. Kuter for chairmanship of the civil aeronautics board, succeeding James M. Landis.

In order to clear the way for Kuter's nomination, Mr. Truman asked congressional action on a bill to enable him to serve as a member of the board without disturbing his military status.

Kuter is the United States representative on the council of the international civil aviation organization.

Landis was dropped as CAB chairman at the end of last year. Mr. Truman gave no explanation of his decision not to reappoint the former New Dealer to the post.

Kuter is 42, a native of Rockford, Ill., and a graduate of the Military Academy.

ed down the street near the theater."

Then the boy said he met "the little Tuley girl" and made advances. She ran, he said, and "I caught up with her and stabbed her."

The theater did not show a murder movie that day, detectives declared. They said two knives found in the youth's home were at the police scientific bureau for blood tests.

Five other suspects are being held out of more than 300 persons questioned to date.

Meanwhile the police homicide squad checked the activities of 21 probated persons New Year's night.

The 21 are residents of the general neighborhood in which the child lived. They were released from county jail in 1947 because "there was no room for them there or in state hospitals," Detective Lt. David E. Kerr, head of the homicide squad, said.

"What results we will get," Kerr said, "I can not foretell, but we are not leaving any angle uncovered in this investigation."

The homicide squad had 10 other men in custody.

"If we could determine where and how the girl was killed," Kerr said, "the investigation would be much simpler. We have not been able to find a single person who saw the girl after she left her home until the time she was found on a porch in the neighborhood. Neither have we been able to find any one who saw or heard anything unusual in that neighborhood on New Year's night.

"While we are working on the theory that the girl was murdered, we have not discarded the possibility that she was the victim of a hitskip motorist or any other cause that might have ended her life."

mons from four Russian doctors who said they wished to consult with him. Nothing on Dr. Berven's activities has come from the Moscow bureau of The Associated Press since a Tuesday dispatch, in which he reiterated that he did not know the identity of the patent whose case he was called to consider.

The report of Stalin on crutches came this week from Mario Pimentel Brandao, who left Moscow in November after serving as Brazilian ambassador to the Soviet Union. He said Stalin's right side was paralyzed. However, persons who reported seeing Stalin in Moscow last month said he was tanned after a vacation in the south of Russia, and appeared in good health. The Russian leader is 68 years old.

Vladmir Pavlov, counsellor of the Soviet embassy in London, called the report "obviously a slanderous and monstrous fabrication." Michail Svirin, secretary to the Russian ambassador, commented: "I do not think it is true."

political considerations.' He added that the President "demonstrated high moral courage in his frankness in dealing with unpleasant ailments in our society and in offering cures that are based on no easy rabbit-in-the-hat miracles but on hard work and sacrifice."

Senator Kilgore (D-W.Va) said Mr. Truman "has clearly reaffirmed the Democratic party's traditional role as the liberal, progressive force in our Democratic society," addind "I am confident the people will support his program."

Says Wallace "Out-Wallaced"

Led by Rep. Halleck, house majority leader, Republicans chorused that the President had attempted to "appease" Henry Wallace. Halleck said the message was "a purely political document designed to out-Wallace Wallace and hold for Mr. Truman the radical wing that controls the Democratic party."

Chairman Carroll Reece of the G.O.P. national committee commented that Mr. Truman "could have saved a great many words by simply writing a note stating: 'Dear Henry: Come home, all is forgiven and you can write your own ticked'."

EDICT TAFT RLY VICTORY

Says Ohioan May Get ination on First or Second Ballot.

The Associated Press

NBUS, O., Jan. 8 — Sen. A. Taft's campaign man- ongressman Clarence J. of Blanchester, O., says favorite son" candidate Republican nomination on the "first or second next summer in the party's convention at Philadel-

's prediction came during conference yesterday which ed a state G.O.P. executive paving the way for 53 ed delegates from Ohio nvention.

Describing himself as "pleasantly surprised" over prospects, Brown said:

"If Senator Taft comes through this session of congress as he did the last, he will get the nomination on the first or second ballot."

Brown said he qualified the prediction only because "so many things can happen in six months."

As of today, Brown continued, Ohio's senior senator "has more delegate strength than any other presidential candidate—announced or unannounced."

Brown also listed "healthy signs" to counteract talk that "Taft is all right, but he can't be elected."

Sees Evidence of Strength

"I have been amazed by telephone and personal calls from conservative Democrats who want to help Taft," the national head of the Taft-for-President committee went on. "These prove to me that Taft would be a very-very strong candidate if nominated. If the convention were held today, Taft would go into it with a substantial vote."

Brown likewise asserted that he did not believe former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, an avowed presidential candidate, would attempt to win Ohio delegates. He said that, although he had no knowledge of Stassen's plans at the present time, he "frankly" did not think the Minnesotan would seek delegates in Ohio.

Brown also professed ignorance of Taft's possible bid for delegates through primaries in other states. He said, however, that the Ohio senator might deem it advantageous to try to win the preferential vote in certain states not requiring the candidate's consent before placing him on the ballot.

Nebraska, Brown said, was one state where Taft's name could be entered without consent although the preferential vote is not binding on delegates there.

Sees Lead in Nebraska

On Taft's prospects in Nebraska, Brown declared: "I am convinced Taft will have practically all the Nebraska delegates."

The G.O.P. state organization yesterday selected a slate of nine delegates-at-large, headed by U. S. Sen. John W. Bricker, and sent word to districts to select delegates who would wage a real fight for Taft's nomination.

Both the delegates-at-large and the 44 district delegates will be elected in the May primary. Political observers said they probably would be unopposed.

In filing their candidacy petitions, delegates will pledge their first choice to Taft and their second choice to State Treasurer Don H. Ebright. Besides Bricker, others on the state committee slate for delegates-at-large are: Brown, Gov. Thomas J. Herbert, State Chairman Fred H. Johnson, former State Chairman Ed D. Schorr, National Committeewoman Mrs. Katharine Kennedy Brown of Dayton; former Gov. Myers Y. Cooper of Cincinnati, Congresswoman Mrs. Frances P. Bolton of Cleveland, and Charles H. Jones of Jackson World War II veteran and president of the Ohio League of Young Republican Clubs.

USED CAR "EMPIRE" INQUIRY REOPENED

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Jan. 8—Investigation of the used-car "empire" formerly operated by Jack Singleton, jailed on six counts of larceny-by-trick and embezzlement, was expected to be reopened tomorrow by the new Cuyahoga county grand jury.

Key employes of the auto sales lot operated by the defunct J. W. Singleton Motors firm were slated to testify under subpoenaes at the initial session of the new jury headed by John P. McWilliams, president of the Youngstown Steel Door Co.

Ex-Congressman Stephen M. Young, defending Singleton against claims of more than $700,000 filed by some 400 disgruntled customers, recently filed a charge of bias against the December grand jury, which returned indictments against Singleton under the foremanship of Birkett L. Williams, another auto dealer.

Meanwhile, bankruptcy court has uncovered an additional $396.13 for Singleton's creditors, who claimed they paid the defendant in advance for nearly new cars and received no deliveries.

Only $3.13 was found of a $10,000 mortgage loan borrowed by Mr. and Mrs. Singleton. The remainder of the confiscated fund was turned over to the court by radio station WJMO, which had received the payments for football broadcasts before the Singleton firm collapsed.

Finds Ozone Shields From Harm by Sun

By The United Press

CHICAGO—Ozone, a gaseous form of oxygen that is most prevalent 60,000 feet in the atmosphere, is mankind's greatest protection against the sun's dangerous rays.

Dr. Marcel Schein of the Institute of Nuclear Studies at the University of Chicago, one of three institutes in a new $12,000,000 nuclear research program underway here, reports ozone makes it possible for human beings to expose themselves to the sun's days Without ozone, it probably would be necessary for people to live underground to avoid the deadly rays of the sun tries by acting together while Congress is discussing the program bill, will be showing that the program is in fact what it professes to be.

Our people will be much more disposed to contribute the large sums which the plan calls for if they are convinced that they are contributing to the unification of Europe. They will not take kindly to this whole project if they are left with the impression that all there is to the plan is 16 separate shopping lists put together in one envelope.

Therefore it is imperative that the European countries, led by Britain and France, act as soon as possible to prove that they are in fact co-operating. They will have no excuse for not acting promptly if Congress adopts quickly a law to create the American agency.

RSH PLANE CRASH AD NOW TOTAL 17

By The Associated Press

AVANNAH, Ga., Jan. 8—The ...s restless tides today ed under the crumbled wreck- ... a New York to Miami ...er plane in which 17 persons, perhaps, 18, died an nine were injured.

The big converted Army C-47, loaded mostly with homeward bound Puerto Ricans, arrived over the Savannah river marshlands eight miles southeast of here yesterday morning, its twin engines firing raggedly.

Lazily the plane circled, abruptly went into a headlong dive, crashed and exploded.

The crew aboard a U.S. Army engineer boat, working in the river, went to the rescue immediately, but even so it was nearly three hours before they could bring out the injured over a torturous mile of mud, water and grass which intervened.

At last reports none of the surviving injured was in critical condition. They were taken to the Marine hospital here.

The plane's manifest in New York showed that 23 persons including an infant boarded the plane there, and two men came aboard in Philadelphia. So far only 26 have been accounted for among the dead and injured and no trace of an infant has been found.

The injured included William Schrader, 18, soldier of Dillonville, O.

A Painful Baby Disorder

The child who suffers from the condition known as intussusception becomes suddenly seriously, and dramatically sick. Even though, as a rule, he is too young to describe his pain his mother will notice that never before in his life has he cried so hard.

Intussusception usually develops in well-nourished and healthy babies between the ages of four and ten months. In this disorder there is a sort of telescoping of the bowel, which seems to take place most often when the child is being changed from a liquid to a solid diet. Thus, this may be one of the causes of the condition, though it may also develop as an apparent aftermath to a bowel infection.

The symptoms of intussusception consist of attacks of colicky pain, vomiting, and the presence of blood in the bowel movements. About three-fourths of the children who develop intussusception usually have all of these symptoms, and all of those with the condition have at least one of them.

If, when these symptoms are present, a lump or mass can be felt in the abdomen, a diagnosis of intussusception is certain. Often, the lump may also be felt through the rectum.

As is indicated earlier, even the first symptoms are severe enough to show that the child is seriously ill. The condition starts suddenly either with vomiting or an attack of sharp, colicky pain which may last only a few seconds but which returns at 10- to 30-minute intervals.

Between attacks, the baby may appear well, but when the pain comes on again he grows pale, draws up his legs, and cries violently. His pulse will be rapid and he may develop fever. As the condition progresses, and the blocking of the opening through the bowel is more complete, the child is pale, sweats, and may often go into shock or collapse.

In making a diagnosis, it may be necessary to give the child an anesthetic or drug to put him to sleep. This will relax the muscles of the abdomen so that an examination may be carried out more easily.

If such a procedure is employed, preparations should be made so that, if necessary, an operation can be performed under the same anesthetic. X-ray of the bowel will almost always reveal the obstruction in the intestine. The treatment to relieve the condition is, in practically all instances, operation.

Questions and Answers

M. A.: I seem to have a sensation of pins and needles in my legs. What could cause this trouble?

Answer: The condition you describe may be due to such things as disturbance of the circulation, trouble of the nervous system, or disorder of the lower part of the spine. Pressure, such as from a tumor within the lower part of the abdomen, might be responsible. Hence, a thorough study by a physician would have to be carried out before proper treatment could be suggested.

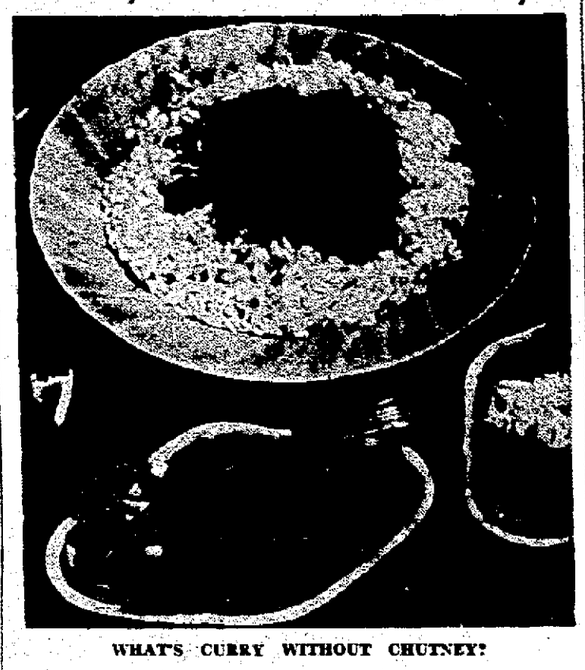
Curry Favor With Curry



WHAT'S CURRY WITHOUT CHUTNEY?

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

I love curry but I always make sure, before serving it to guests that they do too. Then when I know I go to town. I get out all my little bowls for the curry accompaniment and start collecting them—peanuts, coconut, Bombay duck (or dried codfish shredded and oven-browned), light raisins, mixed fruit and peels, onion and tomato relish and lots of other things. Half the fun of eating curry is helping yourself to innumerable small spoonfuls from those little side dishes. Everyone else seems tto think so, too.

Most important of all, of course, among these side dishes is chutney, and now that sugar's abundant again there's no reason why it shouldn't be present. For good as curry is, it's lost without that sweet-sour partner. There certainly ought to be some dire punishment meted out to hostesses or restaurants who serve curry without chutney. Especially since it's so easy to prepare.

By the way, in all my cookbook collecting I've come upon only one small book on curries. It was published in both England and India and is a reprint of a chapter from another volume called "Culinary Jottings from Madras":

Fruit Chutney

3 slices canned pineapple, 2 pounds onions, 1½ pounds tart cooking apples, 1 lemon, very thinly sliced, 1 cup raisins, ¼ cup citron, very thinly sliced, 2 cups light brown sugar, ¾ cup vinegar, 3 teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon ginger, 1 teaspoon allspice, 2 cups water.

Cut pineapple into segments; add onions cut into lengthwise pieces. Add cooking apples, finely cut; add citron and lemon. Add light brown sugar and all remaining ingredients. Simmer gently in heavy preserving kettle, over low heat, stirring occasionally until mixture is rich and thick and dark. Add small additional amount of water if necessary during cooking. This will take from 1 to 1½ hours. Fill hot sterilized jars, cover at once with melted paraffin. When cold, cover with lid or paper cap. Label and store. Makes about 3 pints.

Chicken Curry

4 stalks celery, 2 medium-size onions, 1 small clove garlic, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 quart water or chicken broth, 2½ cups cubed cooked chicken, 4 tablespoons butter, fortified margarine or chicken fat, ¼ cup almonds blanched and sliced, 4 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons curry powder, ¼ teaspoon ginger.

Cut celery stalks into long diagonal pieces. Add onions, sliced lengthwise, in matchstick pieces. Mince garlic, add salt; then, with flat blade of knife rub garlic and salt together until mixed to a paste. All to onion. Add water or chicken broth. Add pepper. Cover, simmer 8 to 10 minutes or until celery is tender. Add chicken. Heat gently. In separate small pan melt fat, add almonds and brown lightly. Add flour, curry powder and ginger. Remove from range and mix well. Add to chicken mixture. Simmer, stirring constantly, until a smooth, rich gravy is formed. Serve with hot cooked rice and trimmings: chutney, shredded coconut, raisins.

COUNTY MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION MEETS

Rev. Faulkner Gives Summary of Church Census.

At the first meeting of the Marion County Ministerial association for the new year Monday at the Y.M.C.A., Rev. R. W. Faulkner, chairman of the evangelistic committee, gave a summary on the church census of the city made late in 1947 by the Kiwanis club. He stated that steps are being taken to publish literature on the census findings and to follow through with a program that will bring most gain possible to the churches as a result of the census. The census consisted of listing of church affiliation or church preference of each family contacted, giving pastors of the various churches a lead on unchurched families which might be reached by his church's particular program. Plans were outlined for a ministerial committee obtaining permission to take a census of grade school children to determine how many attend Sunday school and what Sunday schools they attend. Rev. Henry Maag is chairman of the committee.

Dr. J. W. Poorman of Granville, an official of the Baptist World Crusade for Christ movement, was introduced and outlined a special crusade program with national crusade workers which will be set up for Marion Baptist association churches in April. He suggested to the ministers of the other denominations here that the period of the Baptist program be made a time of special emphasis for other churches in which they call in their own national leaders to point up their own particular denominational programs. The Baptists here have set their week of special activity for April 4-11.

It was announced by Rev. Eldred Johnston, chairman of the social action committee, that Sunday is to be observed as a day for consideration by pastors and congregations of the question of national military conscription. A new committee was named, made up of Rev. Johnston, Dr. Edwin A. Brown and Rev. E. W. Guinther of Prospect to draw up for the association a code which ministers might feel is desirable to follow in considering requests of couples who come to them for performance of the marriage ceremony. For the program, Dr. Henry Schaeffer presented "The Origin of the Reformation," first in a series of three subjects dealing with the establishment of Protestantism.

Presbyterian Church Auxiliary Entertained

For a meeting of the Catherine Woods auxiliary of First Presbyterian church Tuesday night, Miss Irene Reynolds and Miss Mary Smith were hostesses at the home of Miss Ruth Edwards at 212 Cummins avenue.

Devotions were conducted by Mrs. Bess Snider who read an article on the Negro race. A note was read from Miss Catherine T. Woods of Lewistown, Pa., retired missionary to China for whom the auxiliary was named. A letter was read from Miss Blanche Riley of Nelsonville to whom the auxiliary sent a Christmas gift of $30 for five home missionary churches in the mining area there, which she supervises. A letter from Mrs. L. L. Strock of St. Petersburg, Fla., who organized the auxiliary 25 years ago when her husband was pastor of the church, was read. Miss Helen Atchinson gave treasurer's report, and Mrs. Alfred Exton read a paper, "The Philippine Story." A social hour followed.

Guests included Mrs. Alma Snider, and Miss Ruth Mills. Time of the next meeting has been changed to Monday, Feb. 2, when a dinner meeting at the home of Miss Atchinson at 258 South Grand avenue, will be in charge of the social committee, it was announced.

Cooper Corps Elects Mrs. Langdon President

Officers, headed by Mrs. Emma Langdon as president, were installed at a meeting of Cooper Corps No. 194, Women's Relief Corps, Tuesday at the Legion Dugout. A potluck dinner in charge of Mrs. Maude Scheifler and her committee, preceded the business session.

Installed with Mrs. Langdon were Mrs. Scheifler, senior vice; Mrs. Blanche Hartpence, treasurer; Mrs. Hazel Schiller, musician; Mrs. Sarah Croft, guard; Mrs. Fern Lamb, chaplain; Mrs. Emma Zieg, Mrs. Laura Kraus, Mrs. Inez Courtney and Mrs. Clara Harden, colorbearers. Mrs. Mabel Brady of Morral was the installing officer. A report on holiday projects including baskets to less fortunate families was given and plans made to aid a family with food and clothing in the near future.

O.S.U. MARRIED COUPLES GET FREE BABY SITTERS

By The United Press

COLUMBUS, Jan. 8—If Mr. and Mrs. Coed at Ohio State university want to step out some night this quarter it isn't going to cost them anything for a baby sitter—except her transportation.

The Red Cross college unit at the university is setting up a free service for those whose budgets won't stretch to include a paid baby-sitter.

A survey of married students, most of them veterans, revealed need for the service. The unit hopes to provide a volunteer baby sitter for each of the student families one Friday or Saturday evening each quarter.

Sitters will be briefed in the care of babies by Mrs. Gerrald Fitzgerald, director of home nursing for the Franklin County Red Cross chapter.

The first group to volunteer their services for the program were members of the University Dames and Delta Delta Delta Sorority.

Business Women Hold Annual Dinner Party For Employers

Members of the Business and Professional Women's club, their employers and guests met for the annual employer-employe dinner meeting of the club Wednesday night at Hotel Harding with 94 attending. Principal feature of a program following dinner was a talk by Mack Sauer, editor of the Leesburg News and widely known as a humorist and after dinner speaker.

Mr. Sauer keynoted his talk with an illustration of the free choice of the American way of life. As he spoke he pictured in contrast the futures of "three little boys," a child of Germany and one of Japan, bent perforce to a dictator's whim, and any American lad who may fit into his life, any work which he chooses. With this thought he closed, bringing out in an original poem, that it is only where democracy rules that a father can ask "his small boy on his knee, Son, when you grow up, what are you going to be?"

Piano solos were presented by Miss Evelyn McCormick, music chairman of the club. Presiding was Mrs. Flora Gruber, chairman of the education and vocations committee which was in charge of the meeting. The club collect was read preceding the dinner by Mrs. Eleanor Altman a member of the committee. Table decorations were bowls of colored floating candles, leafy green shrubbery twigs arranged down the center of each table, and bowls of mums of various colors.

Guests included two girls from high school business courses who were invited to be present in line with the club's project of introducing "future business women of the city" to the work and programs of the club. They were Misses Juanita Cogan and Mary Ellen Gruber.

Other guests, and employers of club members, included Mr. and Mrs. Dale Hughes, Walter D. Moore, Charlton Myers, Harry S. Silfott, Ben T. Wiant, Bon Peterson, C. D. Pilkington, Robert E. O'Connell, Ralph Rawlings, H. M. Nussbaum, E. T. Smart, H. R. Waddell, Wilson B. Tway, Frank Knapp, Mrs. Marie Burke, A. W. Kette, Harvey T. Gracely, Roy Lovett, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Holt, A. C. Cincinnati's Xavier and Bearcats Set Hot Cage Pace

Xavier Snaps 3rd Perfect Record In 4 Games; U. of C. Stops Reserve

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan 8—It may be Cincinnati's water or air, but whatever the reason, the Queen City's two collegiate athletic powers—Xavier and the University of Cincinnati—currently are the hottest items in the state cage circles after shaky starts

Xavier stunned unbeaten Louisville 62-34, last night, a quintet which ranked near the top nationally. This was the third time in the last four games that Coach Lew Hirt's quintet snapped a perfect record. Ball State and Seton Hall records were blemished in earlier engagements.

Tuesday night, Coach John Wiethe's Cincinnati outfit polished off previously-unbeaten Western Reserve, and, on last Saturday, kayoed Utah's veteran-loaded National Invitational Tourney champions.

Prior to taking on Utah and Reserve, Cincinnati had won only once. Xavier, which lost two of its first five games, now has won six in a row.

Bobcats Win

In other games around the state last night, Ohio university poured it on skidding Miami, 63-41; Canterbury of Indiana nicked Defiance, 57-53, on a last-second goal by a sub guard; Akron scored its eighth win in nine starts by downing Youngstown, 66-55, Muskingum turned back Washington and Jefferson, 72,54, as center Bill Ruby scored 27 points, and the Chillicothe Branch of Ohio University thumped Nite college of Mt. Gilead, 47-35.

Forwards Chick Bowxell and Howie Schueller were the big guns in Xavier's offense as they scored 30 points between them. The Musketeers were in front, 27-19, at halftime.

Little Trouble for Muskingum

Once-beaten Musklugum also had little trouble making W&J its sixth victim. The boys from New Concord, O., led 41-20, at halftime.

It was a case of too much Akron height in the Zippers' game with Youngstown, and the Zippers controlled play most of the way. Hank Vaughn notched 17 points for Akron, but Bob Christen of Youngstown had 21. The Penguins now have lost five out of eight

Jack Lane, a substitute guard, starred in Canterbury's win over Defiance. With the score tied at 55-all, thanks to a long-shot by Defiance's Layton Fritz, Lane connected from midcourt just before the gun sounded.

Dick Shrider, fancy-shooting forward, slipped in 19 points, pacing Ohio university to victory over a Miami team playing its sixth game in eight nights. The winning Bobcats sank 47 per cent of their fielders and trailed only early in the game.

Tonight, Ohio Northern is at Ashland, Kenyon at Denison, Assumption at Heidelberg, Rio Grande at Steubenville and Bluffton at Tri-State (Ind).

SPORTS ROUNDUP

by Hugh Fullerton Jr

NEW YORK, Jan. 8—The business of buying and selling the Detroit Lions seems to have cooled off a bit since the syndicate that was trying to make the purchase offered Freddie Mandel just about half what he paid for the franchise . .But if they try to use the possibility of taking Briggs stadium away from the Lions as a threat, Mandel likely won't go for it He had a deal on fire about five years ago to enlarge the U. of Detroit stadium to 40,000 capacity and move in there on a long-term lease and the university probably would be quite interested in renewing those negotiations . .The reason the coaches football rules committee voted a slight change in the free substitution rule in the case of players injured after a team had used up its time outs was, of course, that a lot of the coaches were cheating a bit with faked injuries. .And that prompted a cynical baseball coach to remark, "Well, aren't all rules made to be broken?"

WHILE A MOB of football men, and others, were waxing convivial at one of yesterday's social events, Bob Woodruff, Baylor coach, looked them over and drawled "Look at all those football coaches there, laughing, shaking hands and being the best of friends. And if a good left halfback walked in, there'd be the gosh dangdest fight you ever saw."

PURITY CODE STARTS THROUGH MILL TODAY

No Major Grid Rule Changes Asked by A.F.C.A.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Jan. 8—The N.C.A.A.'s "sanity code" starts through the final mill today with athletic chieftains freely predicting its approval but many of them foreseeing failure in the accomplishment of its aims.

The code, a group of proposed constitutional amendments designed to curb athletic subsidization, will be placed before the entire N.C.A.A. membership Saturday. Indications are it will meet no organized resistance.

But many southern coaches are cynical, asserting it would do little to purify college athletics.

"I am sure you will still see a lot of poor boys going to college because they are good halfbacks, commented Coach Carl Snavely of North Carolina.

Enforcement continued the main issue as the executive committee of the N.C.A.A. took up the proposals to limit recruiting and aids to athletes.

Dr. Karl Leib of the University of Iowa, N.C.A.A. president, said "this isn't the final answer but it's a step in the right direction."

The code permits grants to athletes under certain conditions and allows institutions to contact players as long as they keep their sales talk within catalogued bounds.

The N.C.A.A. plan calls for enforcement through special committees.

In the major meeting yesterday the rules committee of the American Football Coaches association decided the football game is fine as it is and recommended no major changes.

Tandberg-Maxim Winner May Find Pot of Gold

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Jan. 8—Heavyweight values being what they are today, a couple of battlers named Ollie Tandberg and Joey Maxim will have it out in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night with the winner virtually certain to come up with a couple of pots of gold.

The big dough won't be cleared in this one fight. The 10-rounder figures to gross around $60,000 at $12 tops which should bring Tandberg around $15,000 and his Cleveland foe, $10,000.

But if either scrapper should turn in a real honest to goodness victory, the gates will be wide open for a cleanup.

Gene Stump and Eddie Ehlers of the Boston Celtics of the Basketball Association of America, wear contact lenses while playing.

O.W.U. PLAYS HOST TO MIAMI SATURDAY

Special to The Star

DELAWARE, O., Jan. 8—Ohio Wesleyan university cagers, with an even break in their first four starts, play host to the Redskins of Miami university Saturday night.

The Bishops, who opened with a victory over Wooster and then lost to Baldwin-Wallace, continued the "on and off again" pattern on their holiday trip by defeating Evansville and losing to Xavier.

The Redskins have taken the last of seven battles between the two universities, being the only team to down the Bishops twice last season. Ohio Wesleyan, however, holds a big edge in the overall series which dates back to the 1906-07 season when Branch Rickey began a five-year tenure as cage coach. The rivalry stands at 32 wins for the Bishops against 19 losses.

Center Sherry Rowland, 6-foot 4-inch senior, is pacing the Wesleyan scorers with 54 points for a 13.5 average. The 5-foot 8-inch pair of guards, Chuck Buttermore and Dick Taravella, have counted 42 and 37 points, respectively, for second and third place scoring honors

Jack Thompson, who handled the center post last season, has dropped 20 markers from his forward post The remaining starter, Johnny Meyer, who missed the last two games because of a back injury suffered in the B-W battle, has scored 18 points. He is expected to be ready for the Miami game.

Findlay, Ashland, Columbus Central Stand Out In High School Cage Race

By The United Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 8—Ohio's high school basketball campaign was about a third over today but a scattered few teams already were spotlighted as possible tournament material.

In the northwest Carl Bachman's Findlay team, loser to champion Middletown in last year's state tournament at Columbus looked to be in the thick of things again

The Trojans are currently unbeaten and lead the Buckeye league with nine victories against no defeats They play Bowling Green Friday and Lima South Saturday.

Ashland, which soundly beat it's traditional foe, Mansfield, Tuesday, 41-31, is riding high with seven wins against no defeats

Unbeaten Salem looked like a good bet. Friday Salem will invade East Liverpool, tournament finalists last year who have sunk to a four won, three defeat, record.

Massillon with five won against no losses and veteran-laden Canton Township with only one defeat, stood out in the northeastern sector.

Further south along the Ohio valley Toronto and Mingo have fine records while Newark and Columbus Central are standouts in the central part of the state.

In the southwest, Middletown still the team to beat for the state title, had to share honors with Lockland Wayne. Wayne, after a shaky start, has run up a victory string of eight and recently ran up 98 points on hapless Cincinnati DePorres.

Other teams in the state, with still about two months to go before district tournaments start concentrated on league battles and traditional rivalries.

Lancaster, sharing the Central Ohio league top spot with Newark, will play non-league Marysville tomorrow night. If Newark beats Dover the same night the Wildcats will hold undisputed possession of first place.

In the Lake Erie league the leading Shaker Heights Red Raiders will tangle with Elyria Friday in the feature game in that loop. In another league encounter Lorain's Steelers will take on Shaw

Also on Friday Lima Central will visit Hamilton to try the Big Blue in a Greater Ohio league test.

Harding To Meet Lima South in Edison Gym

Harding High school will play host to a Lima South aggregate in Edison gym Friday night.

Lima South comes here with a two won and four lost record, having lost to Toledo Scott, Dayton Wilbur Wright, Monroe and Van Wert. On the credit side, the Lima steam defeated Celina by a 44-37 count and Wapakoneta by a 39-34 score.

Probable Lima starters include, Gene Johnson, South's hot hooper, Jack Harmon, Rodgers Dupes, Jack Shine, Dick Whetsel — a good courtman at the guard position, Don Shelby and Jack Bowers

Lima will floor an average sized team, no man reaching the six-foot mark

First game at Edison will get started at 7 p. m. when the reserves take the floor.

Irish To Meet Indians On Richwood Court

St Mary's Irish will be endeavoring to stay in the win column Friday night when they meet Mt. Gilead at the Richwood High school gymnasium. The Mt. Gilead Indians are the only Mid-State league opponent the Irish haven't yet faced this season.

Coach Fetter's quintet now stands second to Marysville in the Mid-State league, holding a record of three wins and one loss.

Irish mentor Gene Fetter has been drilling his team on foul shooting this week after the charity tossing slumped against Caley Tuesday.

As for Mt. Gilead, their league record is two losses without a win thus far this season, but a poor record means nothing in basketball and if they boys can get hot, they might prove a troublesome crew for the St. Mary five, Coach Fetter said.

In keeping his same starting line-up, Coach Fetter will start Dick Schuler and John Baldauf at the forward positions; Bob Stuber and Dan Smith at the guard spots, and Jim Moloney at center.

The reserve teams willopen play at 7:30 with the varsity contest to follow at 8:30.

Bob Feller of the Indians allowed 17 home runs during 1947.

Ohio Golfer Qualifies In Crosby's Tourney

By The Associated Press

MONTEREY, Calif., Jan. 8—Otto Greiner of Baltimore, splashing through intermittent rain, shot a 68 on tricky Pebble Beach yesterday to top lesser known pros qualifying for Bing Crosby's $10,000 National Pro-Amateur golf tournament.

Greiner was three shots ahead of his nearest competitors, Gene Webb, Springfield, O., and Stan Kertes, Los Angeles, who had 71's.

The tournament opens at Cypress Point golf course tomorrow, moves to the Monterey Peninsula Country club for Saturday's second round and ends at Pebble Beach on Sunday.

Neidig Decisions Craig In Fight Show's Best 3-Rounder

By BILL MURPHY

Ten big amateur boxing bouts were staged at Schwinger's Annex ... match maker Jimmy Williams last night.

Of the ten three-round bouts, seven ended in unanimous decision, one a draw, and two by way of the tko route.

Joe Neidig and Briss Craig of Sybilla and Delaware respectively ... fighting at 132 pounds, provided the best bout of the evening, ... fair response, as they waded into each other and fought close ... hard all the way. Neidig took the bout by unanimous decision.

In the second best fight, Jack Chambers of Marion out-punched Dick Ayers of Mansfield for three bloody rounds, but almost lost the bout when the judges, trainers and referee momentarily failed to reach a mutual decision.

Give Fans a Treat

Joe Davis of Marioin and Bill Franklin, also of Marion, fighting in the 120-pound class, gave the fans a treat and each other treatment in both boxing skill and slugging stamina. Davis won a decision that could have gone either way.

Danny Wilson of Delaware and Tom Weaver of Marion, both colored boys and both weighing-in at 75 pounds showed promise of developing a good fight, but Wilson took a little too much time in getting off the canvas in the second round and lost the bout on a tko.

Adding a touch of extreme youthfulness to last night's fight card were two brothers, Richard and Floren Franklin of Marion, ages appoximately 7 and 6, who weighed-in at an even 75 pounds apiece. Lacking in weight, these two kids made up for it in courage and boxing finesse. A draw was the only fair decision that could be rendered.

Other Bouts

In other bouts on last night's card welterweiht Gus Angelias of Mansfield won over Bill Krohmer of Marion by unanimous decision; featherweight Don Byles of Delaware decisioned Harold Carpenter of Marion, and lightweight Jack Seckinger of Marion won a tko over Bill Redd, also of Marion.

Paul Richardson of Marion in the lightweight class was defeated by Bill Eberhart of Mansfield while Cecil Wright took a decision from Gene Tunt in the batamweight class. Both boys live in Marion.

Matchmaker Jimmy Williams said that the purpose of the bouts was to give the young fighters of Marion some experience in the ring and to prepare them for tournaments fights later in the year. Jimmy also expressed the hope that he might find a Golden Gloves prospect among the boys he's grooming.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8 — Gus Welch, the chunky Chippewa who quarterbacked Jim Thorpe to football fame at Carlisle, sprang to the defense of the Indian football immortal today with a plea that Thorpe's records be reinstated and his medals restored.

"It's a black mark on sports that such action hasn't been done before this," said Welch, who played on Carlisle's terrific 1911 and 1912 teams. "Look at what they do now."

He was referring to A.A.U. action in stripping Thorpe of his medals and records after the 1912 Olympics because Big Jim had played "a little pro baseball."

"People also have the idea that Jim never trained properly," Welch said. "They are wrong. No man could have done the things he did without being in shape. He worked hard."

Thorpe, according to Welch, was "the greatest" football player we ever had. He recalls particularly a game with Army in which Thorpe ran back the kickoff 90 yards but had it nullified by a penalty.

"So he took the next kickoff and did it all over again exactly the same way," Welch said, "even telling the referee to stay out of his way before he took the ball..."

DON'T TAKE another United States' victory in the Olympics for granted. Track Coaches Jim Kelly of Minnesota and Carl Olson of Pittsburgh agree that we'll be lucky to win a flat race over 100 meters...We ain't gonna moider the bums on the field, either...

The United States is madly attempting to develop hop, step and jump performers for the Olympics. Dick Ganslen, former Columbia pole vaulter now on the Rutgers staff, thinks he's getting too old to be a winner in the running event but wishes they'd revive the standing hop, step and jump.

"I could break the present standing record any time at all if I tried," Ganslen said "But unfortunately it's an obsolete event in which there no longer is competition."

Horse Race Attendance Dropped in 1947

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

NEW YORK — Thoroughbred racing enjoyed a good year during 1947 although attendance and betting figures at most tracks failed to match the records of the previous year.

During the first ten months of the year Thoroughbred Racing Association figures show that $1,-542,315,470 went through the parimutuel betting windows, a drop of approximately $150,000,000 for a similar period during 1946.

In ten months 24,672,374 persons paid their way into the nation's racetracks.

The mammoth New York season of 188 days resulted in $352,-624,464 being wagered. This was a decline of $54,481,284 compared with the previous campaign. Average daily attendance was 24,382 or 1,149 less than 1946.

For Warren Wright's Calumet Farm the year was a tremendous success. His stable again led in money won, setting a record of $1,396,511 in purses. The famed Devil's Red silks were carried to 91 victories—37 of them stakes—41 seconds and 36 thirds.

Among Calumet's stars were the Bull Lea offspring, Armed, Bewitch, Citation and Faultless. Citation, winter book favorite for next May's Kentucky Derby, won eight out of nine races including the rich Pimlico Futurity. The stable was trained by Ben Jones and his son Jimmy.

Whirlaway, former money winning king owned by Calumet Farm, was dethroned. The title changed hands five times with King Ranch's Assault the first to pass Whirlaway's total earnings. Stymie then passed Assault, the latter regained the crown, then lost it to Armed but only temporarily.

Stymie eventually won the title, winning $36,350 when he took Jamaica's Gallant Fox Handicap to run his earnings to $816,060. Armed has won $761,300; Assault $623,370 and retired Whirlaway $561,161.

Jet Pilot, owned by Mrs. Elizabeth N. Graham's Main Chance Farm, won the Kentucky Derby but he had such weak legs that he was retired seven weeks later. The chestnut colt, costing $41,000 as a yearling, earned $186,740 in two years, $93,160 of it in the Derby.

Swamp fever claimed 26 horses during an 11-week quarantine at Rockingham Park, Salem, N. H., but the biggest loss to the racing world was the death of Man o' War. The horse that won 20 out of 21 races—losing only to Upset—died at 30 having sired 172 winners of stakes worth $1,770,320.

"Operation Marion"—Story of Erie Yards

How Marion Hump Works Explained by Magazine.

Operation of the hump in the Erie railroad yards here is the subject of an interesting article appearing in the current issue of the Erie Magazine. Included with the article are a number of pictures of scenes familiar to Erie men. Non-railroad people, however, will find the story and photos both interesting and informative since they explain in detail the operations incident to the handling of a vast volume of freight on 24-hour daily schedule. The magazine gave lead position to the article which it titled "Operation Marion." Profusely illustrated, it covered five pages. The article and one of the pictures is reproduced herewith:

Of the many notable cities pin-pointing the "Erie Area," Marion ranks as one of the most interesting. Located in the heart of the Buckeye State's north central sector 269 miles east of Chicago, it spells home to 35,000 inhabitants and headquarters for 39 diversified industries.

Known as "The Shovel City of the World" since 1874, when the first steam shovel was made here, and famed in modern history as the residence of President Warren G. Harding for nearly four decades, Marion also rates importantly as a rail transport hub. It is, moreover, the site of Erie's second largest freight classification yard. So it is little wonder that the rails of four Class I carriers converge on this community from east, west, north and south. The "rhythm of the rods," providing the vibrant melody of motive power and rolling stock on the move, is music to Marion's ears!

The main line of the New York Central (Big Four Division linking Cleveland and St. Louis) joins the Erie at Marion. Together, under Erie direction, they operate a joint 21 mile double track northeast to Galion. From the north and south Marion is served by the Chesapeake & Ohio's Ashland, (Ky.)—Toledo, (O) branch . . . the old Hocking Valley . . . and the Columbus-Sandusky line of the Pennsylvania. Shooting south, too, is the busy 84-mile Erie spur to highly industrialized Dayton.

A Busy Crossing

The double crossing at the eastern entrance of the Erie yard in Marion is a scene of virtually contiguous activity. Train movements average about 330 a day, presenting a pageant in miniature of America's industries and her railroad going places and doing big things. All operations over this vital crossing are controlled from an interlocking plant equipped with an electrically-operated, 84-lever interlocking machine, which enables operators in the AC Tower supervised by C. (Duke) Heinlen to control the signals, switches and derails guarding the dual crossover from each direction.

Now we come to the stage for an exciting drama. . . . "Operation Marion," the complex task of breaking up and remaking Erie's famous fast freights enroute between Chicago and New York. On this string production the curtain never falls. It is presented daily . . . rain or shine, winter and summer . . . with precision, speed and dependability that signalize modern railroading the efficient Erie way at its blue-ribbon best.

T. W. Tewalt Controls Freight Car from Tower B as It Rolls Through Retarder.

What Erie old-timers by the score once called the "big bottleneck" that severely impeded the flow of traffic over the entire 2,229-mile system has been transformed, by improvements effected in recent years, into a "flexible funnel" through which cars now move in rapid tempo continuously. Into, through and out of the yard they pour; steady, swift-running, smoothly-channeled is this freight stream. But an equally essential ingredient of this superior performance and superb coordination that so materially helps to keep the Erie "first in fast freight," achieved under the general direction of Supt. H. H. Clark, is the keen operating knowhow marshaled here which stems from a backlog in railroading experience exceeding four centuries as represented by the combined years of service of 12 key employes in the Marion hump yard operation.

Heavy Traffic Interchange

Unusually heavy interchange traffic from connecting carriers, frequently totaling as high as 500 to 600 cars a day, makes Marion a logical place for performing the never-ending classification switching that goes into breaking up and making up for dispatch eastward and westward approximately 25 regularly-scheduled and eight or more "extra" through-freights of 100-125 cars each which highball over the Erie night and day. Then add to this sum six other trains on the Marion-Dayton run and you have a good idea of the scope of car movements handled here by a fleet of eight modern diesel switchers. Vast indeed is this job: 24 yard crews in each 24-hour period on a three-trick basis are required.

Coal and lumber from the south, merchandise and manufactured goods from the north and the east, citrus fruits, deciduous fruits, other perishables from the west . . . . products and commodities of wide variety in amazing array . . . . all flow in tremendous quantities through this vast traffic funnel on a smoothly-integrated, timed-to-the-split-second basis that, at best, is difficult to visualize completely and fully appreciate. Approximately 3,000 cars can be classified daily.

Why is the Marion yard ready for this unending influx day-in and day-out?

The answer in part goes back to 1930, when certain long-range improvements were completed to expedite speedier handling of westbound traffic and southbound cars. Other changes were made to facilitate east-bound operations, but this is another story in itself which will be left untouched now for future telling. Freight movements headed west and south command our sole attention for the present.

In 1930, westbound classification trackage was increased, car storage capacity of each track enlarged, a new receiving yard built with three parallel tracks of 125-car capacity each for directly yarding such long trains in complete units, and a new hump installed complete with modern car-retarding equipment and power-operated switches.

The old 13-track classification yard was expanded to 24 tracks, which are divided into two units of six tracks each and three units of four tracks each, providing a total storage capacity of 2,000 cars for the yard. The first group holds 110 cars per track; the second unit averages 55 cars each; the third, 80 cars per track, excepting one stub track that holds 13 cars; the fourth, 45 cars per track, and the fifth, 43 cars each.

Prior to humping for classification, inbound trains from the east are yarded in complete units in the three-track receiving yard running along the extreme north end of the Marion yard. No longer must they be doubled over the head end upon arrival as was so often the case in the old yard of limited capacity, an operation that invariably hampered subsequent humping of cars. Slow operation and congestion at Marion at that time made it necessary to do considerable classification switching at Huntington and Hammond, Ind. Now, this is merely a memory to many Erie men, thanks to Marion's improved facilities.

With the retarder yard operation, many classifications or groups of cars are made to eliminate a second handling at subsequent terminals and junction points which not only relieves switching at those junction points, but very substantially increases the speed with which cars are moved over the railroad. For instance, at this point the principal westbound classifications are:

1. NKP Lima.
2. Lima proper.
3. Wabash, Huntington, Ind.
4. Huntington proper.

In Service Jan. 1, 1930

Built and equipped with mechanical retarders in 1929 which were placed in service January 1, 1930, the improved hump serving the classification tracks replaced a car-rider hump originally constructed in 1907. As all good railroaders know, the "hump" as it is called, is the highest elevation of a special track constructed at a steep grade that enables cars to be released and shunted by gravity into various tracks for reclassification. The cars are pushed to the top of the hump and released singly or in groups and sent rolling down the incline on the hump track from which a network of switching tracks fans out. A stirring sight to behold in any freight classification yard, it provides an even greater thrill for the onlooker at Marion when he realizes that, due to the limited number of 125-car tracks available for receiving and momentarily storing long trains, humping must be accomplished smoothly and speedily so that these tracks are kept continually open for other incoming westbound trains.

As Trainmaster E. J. Robisch so aptly phrases it: "Everything must click like clockwork from start to finish."

The Marion installation consists of a gravity hump with a far better descending grade than the old unit and is served by 18 retarders and two control towers. Located immediately west of the yard office, Tower A controls three retarders just over the crest of the hump and an additional four retarders and four switches serving the yard's two lead tracks. Tower B, a short distance further west, controls 11 supplementary mechanical retarders and 20 switches connecting the various individual unit groups of track. Each tower is operated by one man and the hump is operated on three eight-hour tricks. The retarders are pneumatically controlled and electro-pneumatically operated.

Switches likewise are power-operated. "Circuited for locking," all tracks are equipped with a track circuit for 20 feet from each switch to hold it in position and to prevent its operation between car trucks as rolling stock passes over the switch.

With a car retarder it is possible to control the speed of the cars upon leaving the hump as they pass over the gravity track so equipped to the sorting tracks. This is accomplished by application of compressed air to a set of movable "brake shoes," located along each side of and parallel to each rail. When the tower man applies pressure, these shoes act as brakes against the rims of the turning car wheels, "squeezing" them to retard movement of the car or bring it to a halt, whichever is desired depending on conditions. Eliminating the former necessity of brakemen riding the released cars, these devices have increased the safety, efficiency and speed of yard operations.

A Tricky Job

Four degrees of pressure may be applied: 18, 35, 75 and 100 pounds. It takes only seven seconds to put a retarder in the fourth position. Pressure, controlled by the tower operators, varies with the weight of each car moving through a retarder. Its proper application is a job that requires unusual skill and judgment, acquired only through years and years of experience. H. S. Jacoby of Tower A, for instance, has been with the Erie for 41 years, while O. G. Diehl and T. W. Tewalt (who handle the second trick at Towers A and B) have been on the job for 38 years each. Tower B operator, C. E. Shepherd, also is a 38-year veteran.

Greater pressures are required on the heavily loaded cars. But if too much pressure is applied, empty cars particularly may "climb" out of the shoes, becoming derailed on heavy steel plates protecting the springs. Each retarder at Marion, however, is equipped with a small re-railing frog that automatically puts derailed wheels back on the track almost as quick as a wink. This small safety device has proved an invaluable aid in preventing serious derailments and prolonged operating tie-ups.

Thanks to the streamlined operation resulting from this modern hump installation, it is possible to switch 150 loaded cars or 200 "empties" over the hump in an hour. Pushed upon the hump by a diesel switch engine, cars are cut off the train at the crest of the hump, moving by gravity westward. Their speed is reduced according to tonnage carried as they pass through the first set of retarders. As cars roll down the hump track to the sorting tracks through the supplementary retarders, their speed is further reduced.

Hence, cars roll merrily over the hump in a steady procession. A train of 125 cars is broken up for reclassification in the amazingly short time of 60 minutes on the average. Today, approximately 1,400 cars per day are handled this way. Back in 1943, the high mark was established on March 25, when 2,000 of 3,875 cars funneled through the Marion gateway were moved over the westbound hump.

By means of color light signals atop the hump and advance signaling located 1,500 feet up the track, operated by the hump conductor or Tower A operator, the engineer pushes his train on the hump at certain prescribed speeds. A green block means "proceed at normal humping speed." When cars reach the crest, the block is changed to yellow, indicating a humping speed of two m.p.h. A combined green-and-yellow block, used in humping a cut of 25-30 cars at one time, tells the engineer to double his speed. Red-over-yellow signifies "back up," and red alone, of course, means "stop."

Two Air Compressors

Two water-cooled compressors located in a power house near the hump maintain an air pressure of 110 pounds required to operate the retarders and switches. In average practice, there is one compressor working and one for standby service. Control circuits are so arranged that if one unit set to operate normally does not start for any reason, the other one will start automatically upon a slight drop in air pressure.

Movement of cars through Marion without any time-wasting delay also is due to the marvels of modern wire communication. The Marion yard is conected by a teletype system (type-writing by wire) with all other principal Erie yards and with the company's general offices in New York, Cleveland and Chicago. Car-by-car lists of all trains leaving principal through train yards, including Marion, are transmitted on this intraline communication network to the general offices and to the next advance through-train yard. These lists show the initial, number, owner, contents, weight, destination, and route of each car. This information on the location of cars enroute from one terminal to another is furnished rapidly to each yard, thereby facilitating their movement through it promptly upon arrival.

After his teletype consist is received from Meadville, Pa., by General Yardmaster D. D. Shoemaker, it is relayed by similar equipment to the yard office atop the hump and the hump yardmaster then, in turn, transmits the list on his machine to the two control towers, each of which is equipped with a receiving unit. The yardmaster then gives a copy to the hump conductor and everyone concerned with the operation thus gets a copy of the car list for each train just before the actual humping operation begins.

Correctly posted on which particular classification track one car or a "cut" of cars is to go, the tower men can operate the lever-regulated retarders and switches with a flick of the fingers in routing cars to any one of some 20 different classifications requfred for numerous junction points west of Marion, the three other roads which connect with the Erie here, and local deliveries. The operator's desk in each tower is equipped with indicator lights that show the position of each switch. Still another valuable aid to efficient, swift car-handling is a loudspeaker system, which enables the yardmaster, hump conductor and tower operators to converse with each other as they check back and forth while humping and switching are in process.

System of Illumination

Illumination from a powerful floodlight expedites night operations. The control towers have six floodlights each; a light tower at the western end of the yard has five lights. All are controlled automatically by an astronomical clock, which turns the lights on when a certain degree of darkness prevails and turns them off when it is again daylight.

In any Erie railroading operation, the use of time-saving equipment and improved facilities unquestionably contributes markedly to the achievements attained. But just as certain, and perhaps more so, is the fact that "It's The Men Who Make The Erie." As Edward Hungerford, the noted chronicler of railroad history, points out his recent romance of the rails, MEN OF ERIE:

"The steady, even, unceasing aim of every Erie man is the steady, even, unceasing flow of its traffic. The procurement of that traffic has become a fine art indeed, but the proper handling of it is an even finer art."

A vital part of this precise art involves efficient car-handling and speedy yard classification. "Operation Marion," as performed by the many unsung "men of Marion" who unstintingly do their parts respectively in making it the success that it has become aptly mirrors the precision, skill and experience required to perform the big, complex job of breaking up and making up through-freight trains safely, smoothly, swiftly. For in the Marion operation you have one of the prime factors that explain why the Erie, a pacemaker in modern rail transport long famous for its fast feights, continues to rank "First in Fast Freight" in the six-state area forming the Heart of Industrial America!

TIRE COSTS INCREASE

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., Jan. 8—The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. and the B. F. Goodrich Co. yesterday confirmed a report the price of tires for automobile manufacturers and other first users had been raised five per cent. Neither company would comment further on the increase, but a Goodrich spokesman in New York said it was necessitated by boosts in production costs.

New York Stock Quotations

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Jan. 8—Buyers continued to nibble at selected stocks in today's market although many leaders were more or less ignored.

Wall street still was apathetic regarding the President's tax proposals.

Dealings, fairly active at the start, soon slowed. Fractional advances predominated near midday.

Improved most of the time were Lukens Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Goodyear, International Harvester, Schenley, International Telephone, Kennecott, American Can, Union Carbide, Santa Fe, Pennsylvania Railroad, Great Northern Railway, Chesapeake & Ohio, Texas Co., Eastern Air Lines and Twentieth Century-Fox.

Backwards at intervals were U. S. Steel, Chrysler, Packard Motors, Douglas Aircraft, Consolidated Edison, North American, Anaconda, J. C. Penney and Illinois Central.

NEW PROPERTY LAW HARD ON BACHELORS

By International News Service

OMAHA, Neb.—The community property law may make it tougher for bachelors to obtain loans.

Lewis R. Ricketts, Lincoln attorney, made this prediction to fellow-members of the Nebraska Bar association at their recent 48th annual meeting. He explained that creditors may shy away from single men, fearing their later marriage would make their income community property and immune to garnishment.

The attorney added:

"Creditors in such cases would have to look for separate property owned by the former bachelors, or wait for dissolution of the community property system to collect the debts. In fact, the community property system may create a moratorium on debts contracted by one member of the system."

Another Lincoln attorney, Guy C. Chambers, told the meeting the 1947 Nebraska law was compiled almost directly from the Oklahoma law adopted in 1945.

Laurens Williams, Omaha lawyer, and Perry W. Morton, Lincoln, traced the system to its origin in Spain in the fifth century. They said it was introduced into southwestern United States by early Spanish settlers.

APACHE INDIANS PIONEERS IN USE OF SILVER BULLETS

By The United Press

PHOENIX, Ariz. — The Lone Ranger employs silver bullets to maintain law and order in the West, but Arizona's warlike Apaches had them a long time before the Lone Ranger, according to A. L. Flagg, superintendent of the minerals department of the Arizona State Fair.

Flagg said law and order was something that didn't interest the Apaches at all. Silver for their bullets came from Richmond Basin, near Globe, where the almost-pure metal at one time could be picked up on the surface.

Miners in the frontier days of Arizona removed millions of dollars of the precious metal from the fabulous basin.
